strengths the problems it experienced and the services it delivered and to present some guidelines for the betterment of the service VICTIMLINE was developed in three phases namely the analysis development and implementation and evaluation phases Each of these phases is evaluated in the report The researcher found that the service was underutilized particularly in the initial stages of the implementation of VICTIMLINE However this underutilization did not result from there being no need for such a service but rather from the fact that victims were unaware of this source of help for their problems. The researcher concludes that even though the envisaged low cost quality service to large numbers of crime victims has not yet been fully realized the structural and managerial changes have led to a more streamlined service which is set to provide an affordable and accountable service to all victims of crime Recommendations relating to the future operation of VICTIMLINE are made such as the expansion of the service to a national level and changes to the hours in which VICTIMLINE operates The Journal of Criminal Law & Criminology, 1986 New Insights Into Emotional Intelligence Francisco Manuel Morales-Rodríguez, 2023-02-08 This book contains several relevant chapters that will allow further progress in the field of emotional intelligence and the application of its findings in different contexts which has become necessary due to the worldwide COVID 19 pandemic It contributes to the continuous generation of knowledge through the development of research It also provides useful information for the improvement of education and socioemotional management in different educational and professional contexts
