Children will have so much fun they won't realize they're learning. Give children the gift of more movement and imaginative activity to stimulate their problem solving skills and creativity. The activities in this book will expand their horizons, inspire their minds and even develop their vocabulary. They will ask for these activities over and over again. Journal of Health, Physical Education, Recreation, 1961. Teaching Creative Movement Johanna Exiner, Phyllis Lloyd, 1974. Counting verses explain how a family ended up with a dozen cats. A Guide for Supervisors and Trainers on Implementing the Creative Curriculum for Early Childhood Diane Trister Dodge, 1993. This guide is designed for early childhood educators who are helping their staffs implement the Creative Curriculum for Early Childhood, a curriculum that is based on child development theory and is developmentally appropriate for preschool and kindergarten children. A carefully organized and rich environment serves as the focus of this curriculum. Part 1 of the guide contains three sections discussing respectively 1) reasons for introducing the new curriculum, 2) support and encouragement of staff development during curriculum implementation, and 3) the use of classroom visits by supervisors as a way to provide technical assistance to staff and to fine tune the program. Part 2 offers workshop outlines and handouts for conducting staff development sessions. This part contains 12 sections, the first of which suggests workshop strategies for trainers while the second outlines a workshop that provides staff with an understanding and appreciation of the curriculum's child development focus. The following 10 sections each describe workshops devoted to a particular topic: 1) blocks, 2) house corner dramatic play, 3) table toys, 4) art, 5) sand and water, 6) the library, 7) music and movement, 8) cooking, 9) computers, and 10) the outdoors. Each workshop emphasizes the value of its topic area to child development through exercises, activities, discussions, and handouts. Two appendices provide a copy of the Creative Curriculum Self Assessment and Observation Form and staff development forms. T. J. Q. The Journal of Health and Physical Education, 1932. Creative Activities in Physical Education Olive Katherine Horrigan, 1929. Interactions for Development and Learning Kathleen S. Ralph, 2002. For undergraduate courses in General Methods in Early Childhood Development, Development of the Young Child, and Early Childhood Curriculum. This unique text stresses a positive interactive curriculum for development and learning based on five developmental areas: personal, social, physical, cognitive, communication, and creative. The revised edition ties developmental theory to real life situations in a variety of settings. This helpful text provides methods of planning, program implementation, and evaluation for those who wish to enhance the quality of interaction with children from birth through age eight. Interactions for Development and Learning E. Anne Eddowes, Kathleen S. Ralph, 1998. Appropriate for courses in General Methods in Early Childhood Development, Development of the Young Child, Early Childhood Development, and Early Childhood Curriculum. This text is the first of its kind to emphasize the importance of different types of interaction for development and learning. A theoretical rationale is provided for the importance of appropriate interactions between an adult and child, between a child and older and younger peers, or between a child and an object. For those who work in real situations with young children, this is an invaluable guide that presents

methods of planning program implementation and evaluation
