Remixing the Classroom Randall Everett Allsup, 2016-06-27 In a delightfully self conscious philosophical mash up Randall

Everett Allsup provides alternatives for the traditional master apprentice teaching model that has characterized music education. By providing examples across the arts and humanities Allsup promotes a vision of education that is open, changing, and adventurous at heart. He contends that the imperative of growth at the core of all teaching and learning relationships is made richer though less certain when it is fused with a student's self-initiated quest. In this way the formal study of music turns from an education in teacher-directed craft and moves into much larger and more complicated fields of exploration. Through vivid stories and evocative prose Randall Everett Allsup advocates for an open quest-driven teaching model that has repercussions for music education and the humanities more generally.

Listening in Action Rebecca M Rinsema, 2016-10-14. In an age when students come to class with more varied music listening preferences and experiences than ever before, music educators can find themselves at a loss for how to connect with their students. Listening in Action provides the beginnings of a solution to this problem by characterizing students' contemporary music listening experiences as they are mediated by digital technologies. Several components of contemporary music listening experiences are described, including the relationship between music listening experiences and listener engagements with other activities, listener agency in creating playlists and listening experiences as a whole, and the development of adolescent identities as related to the agency afforded by music listening devices. The book provides an accessible introduction to scholarship on music listening across the disciplines of musicology, ethnomusicology, sociology of music, psychology of music, and music education. By reading Listening in Action, music educators can gain an understanding of recent theories of music listening in everyday life and how those theories might be applied to bridge the gap between music pedagogies and students who encounter music in a heavily mediated postperformance world.
