Review Geojournal:

The symbiotic city Marian Stuiver,2023-08-14 Urgency asks us to transform our cities and re embed them into soil water and living organisms to safeguard our planet s resources and restore biodiversity This book introduces the symbiotic city a future urban landscape that creates beneficial relationships between humans and nature The symbiotic city is a narrative of hope that re creates biodiversity and promotes social equity inclusion and environmental justice The chapters introduce cities that are already evolving to becoming more symbiotic The cities and metropolitan areas described in this book show initiatives that invite the voices of nature to re enter the urban realm The cases advocate diverse values of nature such as nature based solutions personal and communal values of nature and the intrinsic rights of nature They give the reader insights in epistemological governance and action oriented solutions to work towards the symbiotic city The book provides strategic and practical guidelines for urbanites from any background We welcome our readers to actively join the exciting journey toward future cities and metropolitan areas where all voices are heard human and non human Public Policy in Agriculture Ashok K. Mishra,Davide Viaggi,Sergio Gomez y Paloma,2017-08-07 In recent years developed countries have formulated public policies in agriculture ranging from supporting rural life and farm income to promoting sustainability of food and fibre production Public Policy in Agriculture Impact on Labor Supply and Household Income addresses the lack of empirical research in this area It explores the impact of differing approaches to public policy through a series of international case studies from the USA and Canada to South Korea Norway Slovenia and Taiwan At a time when much of the developed world has been experiencing budget deficits and policy makers and the public in general have re opened the debate on public expenditures in the agricultural sector this is a timely volume Mishra Viaggi and Gomez y Paloma have written an authoritative guide to agricultural public policy that will serve as a reference for academics researchers students and policy makers Sustainable Urban Environments for Human Health Nidhi Singh,Justyna M. Chodkowska-Miszczuk,Pardeep Singh,Pramit Verma,2025-11-28 Sustainable Urban Environments for Human Health integrates concepts related to energy sustainability urbanization and human health into a single comprehensive resource This book addresses the multifaceted global crises involving energy economy environment and public health by exploring synergies and anticipating future perspectives opportunities and challenges to ensure resilience in a rapidly evolving human driven world Themes include ecological urban planning for health renewable energy in urban environments air quality and respiratory health green infrastructure and health active transportation and health energy equity and social determinants of health urban agriculture and food systems and urban waste management s impact on human health Presents a multi disciplinary approach to understanding urban health problems Provides knowledge and information about the synergy effect emerging from ecosystem connectivity Offers a theoretical perspective on practical urban sustainability for transitional and transformational change Approaching Regeneration of the Built Environment Saimir Shtylla,Hamid Rabiei,2025-06-02 This book approaches three important aspects related with urban regeneration such as research innovation and challenges In light of its growing interdisciplinarity the selected contributions extend the debate to the importance of the cooperation between various disciplines attention to the latest design and technological trends as well major inclusivity of citizens for a correct decision making process leading afterwards into successful development test and implementation of innovative solutions An important focus will be set on the important role innovations play in the preservation and management of heritage sites in response to the climate and urban challenges encountered Also this contribution aims to transmit the importance of local interventions in the achievement of urban regeneration as an impulse for the achievement of the common global climate goals in the years ahead

Health and Medical Geography in Africa Yemi Adewoyin,2023-10-30 This contributed volume focuses on the evolution and current state of the sub discipline of health and medical geography in Africa It encompasses theoretical and methodological issues as well as the current teaching and research capacities of institutions offering programs in health and medical geography in Africa Further the book will review the level of adoption of the sub discipline in State policies and practice and also provide practical illustrations with case studies of how studies in the sub discipline are central to the actualization of Africa s development agenda Particular attention is paid to the relationship between health and development Through its direct and indirect impacts on labor productivity population health and wellbeing matter for the social and economic development of households and national economies Yet health is not uniform in space And so is development Comparatively on many health and development indicators Africa fares poorly The variation in health may present as differences in the occurrence and spread of diseases the distribution of and access to healthcare facilities and or in health outcomes among the population Reasons for these variations range from biology to the population s levels of exposure and susceptibility to elements in their environment including the social interactions taking place within the environment The field of health and medical geography focuses on the spatial patterns and processes underlying these variations and provides pathways for understanding and addressing them More specifically the sub discipline of health and medical geography focuses on among others how places their characteristics and processes that go on in them and environmental factors underlie and or influence disease patterns exposure and susceptibility to diseases health variations health behavior health outcomes and the provision of and access to healthcare services This volume documents perspectives and applications in health and medical geography in Africa for academics students health practitioners and development policymakers

Transforming African Food Systems Claire Helen Quinn, Andrew John Dougill, Julian Douglas May, 2025-10-24

Overcoming Africa s development challenges cannot be uncoupled from the need to transform the continent s food systems One in four people in sub Saharan Africa faces food insecurity and Africa will need to produce 80% more food by 2050 The challenge is complicated by the interrelationship between agriculture and environmental sustainability In addition agriculture also remains one of the most effective pathways out of poverty on the continent As agriculture both contributes to and is affected by climate change there is a pressing need for innovation in climate smart agriculture that considers the environment as integral to the food system However access to nutritious safe food and improved livelihoods does not solely depend on boosting agricultural productivity Food systems encompass the activities and actors involved in all aspects of the food supply chain from production through to consumption and disposal of food A food systems research approach recognises the importance of interactions and relationships between activities actors and thus the importance of interdisciplinary approaches for achieving transformative change The concerted and coordinated actions of the food industry agriculture production and processing retail food service sector and waste disposal and consumers are crucial to promote sustainable consumption and production with a focus on reducing all forms of food losses throughout the entire supply chain Food systems transformation needs to focus not just on increasing production but on access to food and markets nutrition diversity and security climate resilience and adaptation of both agro ecological systems and the food system more broadly This Research Topic focuses specifically on transformation of African food systems While comprising many similar activities actors to other food systems African food systems also have activities actors and conditions that are specific to the African context These contextual factors include a shared history of colonisation that creates specific historical demographic political and socio cultural drivers of change value chains that are often short and reliant on informal exchange and small scale operations distinct territorial imbalances that create significant inequalities and normative and cognitive institutions that create diverse cultural beliefs and values while influencing the roles of women and youth in food systems We welcome submission of original research articles case studies systematic reviews or meta analysis that offer new insights and perspectives on African food systems transformation This topic will bring together interdisciplinary research and practice and provide a platform for knowledge exchange collaboration and collective action for transforming African food systems so that they are equitable resilient and sustainable Globalization and Global History Barry K. Gills,William Thompson,2012-11-12 Globalization and Global History argues that globalization is not an exotic and new phenomenon Instead it emphasizes that globalization is something that has been with us as long as there have been people who are both interdependent and aware of that fact Studying globalization from the vantage point of long term global history permits theoretical and empirical investigation allowing the authors collected to assess the extent of ongoing transformations and to compare them to earlier iterations With this historical advantage the extent of ongoing changes which previously appeared unprecedented can be contrasted to similar episodes in the past The book is divided into three sections The first focuses on how globalization has been written about from a historical perspective The second part advances three different takes on how best to view globalization from a very long term stance The final section continues this interpretative thread by examining more narrow aspects of globalization processes ranging from incorporation processes to systemic disruptions The Economics of Part-time Farming Ruth M. Gasson,1988 Off-farm Work in Three Coastal

Communities of West Kalimantan, Indonesia Syamsuni Arman,1989 Development Study - Department of Agricultural Economics and Management University of Reading. Department of Agricultural Economics and Management,1984 An Environmental History of the UK Defence Estate, 1945 to the Present Marianna Dudley,2012-05-03 This book brings to attention the history of places that have traditionally remained under the radar in discussions of war and the environment through site based studies of five training areas in southwest England and Wales Salisbury Plain Lulworth Dartmoor Sennybridge and Castlemartin At these sites the big events of the twentieth century are written into landscapes that absorb their impact and reflect change in intriguing ways Here however environment is more than a canvas on which historical forces play out it has an agency of its own as the depiction of the surprising nature and robust habitats of the training areas recognises An Environmental History of the UK Defence Estate 1945 to the Present critically examines the gradual greening of the MoD as it developed policies of military environmentalism It includes the histories of the ghost villages created by forced evictions and charts the rise and fall of anti military protest movements It depicts heated confrontations mass trespasses and demands for public access alongside conservation work and training activities situating the human histories of these sites within their environmental history and taking the reader behind the barbed wire in the first study of its kind
