known for Aelita 1924 the classic science fiction film of the Soviet silent era Yakov Protazanov directed over a hundred films in a career spanning three decades Called the Russian D W Griffith in the 1910s for his formative role in the first movies in the last years of the Russian Empire he fled the Civil War and maintained a successful career in Europe before making an unusual decision to return to Russia now under Soviet power There his films continued their remarkable success with audiences undergoing a bewildering and often brutal revolutionary transformation Rather than treating him as an indistinct if capable craftsman The Cinema of Yakov Protazanov argues that his films are suffused with a unique creative vision that reflects both his mindset as a traditional Russian intellectual and his experience of dislocation and migration after 1917 As he adapted his films to revolutionary culture they intermingled different voices and reinterpreted his past work from a disavowed era Offering fresh perspectives of Protazanov s films the book will give readers a new appreciation of his career The book offers a uniquely valuable vantage point from which to explore how cinema reflected a society in transformation and a seminal moment in the development of cinematic art

Sovereign Fictions Ilya Kliger, 2024-04-05 The nineteenth century novel is generally assumed to be concerned with private lives and social relations But Russian fiction obsessively focused on scenarios of state power was an exception to the rule In Sovereign Fictions Ilya Kliger shows that this encounter between realist fiction and political authority gave Russian novels a form unlike their counterparts in the west Kliger explores Russian realism s distinctive construals of sociality through a broad range of texts from the 1830s to the 1870s including works by Dostoevsky Gogol and Pushkin and several lesser known but influential books of the period including Mikhail Lermontov s A Hero of Our Time 1840 Ivan Goncharov s The Same Old Story 1847 Ivan Turgenev s Rudin 1856 Aleksei Pisemsky s One Thousand Souls 1858 and Vasily Sleptsov s Hard Times 1865 Kliger s book offers an important intervention in socially inflected theories of the novel and in current thinking on representations of power and historical poetics

Relearning History Joe Regenbogen, 2018-01-15 For many students the traditional approach to the study of history does not work The litany of facts arranged in a chronological sequence often turns out to be mind numbing and forgettable In addition they see little relevance between the past and the world they live in today Relearning History was written for those students Instead of reviewing the traditional time line of the past the focus is directed at questions relevant to the present Why does the two party system dominate American politics Why is wealth so unevenly distributed Why does race and gender still play such a large role in modern society Why has there never been a World War Three These why questions along with 11 others serve as the foundation for a discussion of history so that the study of the past is inexorably linked to a enhanced understanding of the present Students who are currently enrolled in history classes can use Relearning History to supplement and enrich the traditional curriculum Some may even want to use it in place of the traditional curriculum As for those adults who have completed their formal education and never learned much in their earlier history classes this book will give them the chance to finally study history in a meaningful manner Sophia Tolstoy Alexandra Popoff, 2010-05-11 Alexandra Popoff grew up in Moscow where she was educated at the Gorky Literary Institute and then worked as a feature writer and editor at The Literary Gazette a major writers newspaper In 1992 she emigrated to Saskatchewan where she earned master s degrees in Slavic Languages and Literatures from the University of Toronto and in English Literature from the University of Saskatchewan Her scholarly publications have appeared in the Canadian Journal of History Slavic and East European Journal Canadian Slavonic Papers and Voprosy Literatury Moscow She presented papers on Sophia Tolstoy s prose at the Tolstoy conference at Harvard The Over Examined Life New Perspectives on Tolstoy 2002 and the 2007 Congress of the Humanities and Social Sciences in Saskatoon She lives in Canada Russian Novelists in the Age of Tolstoy and Dostoevsky J.
