The voices of teachers parents and students create a compelling ethnographic study that examines the debate between traditional and progressive pedagogies in literacy education and the mismatch of cross cultural discourses between mainstream schools and Asian families This book focuses on a Vancouver suburb where the Chinese population has surpassed the white community numerically and socioeconomically but not politically and where the author uncovers disturbing cultural conflicts educational dissensions and silent power struggles between school and home What Guofang Li reveals illustrates the challenges of teaching and learning in an increasingly complex educational landscape in which literacy culture race and social class intertwine Advocating for a greater cultural understanding of minority beliefs in literacy education and a more critical examination of mainstream instructional practices Li offers a new theoretical framework and critical recommendations for teachers schools and parents
