

Chapter 14: SOLUTIONS TO TEXT PROBLEMS:Quick Quizzes

1. When a competitive firm doubles the amount it sells, the price remains the same, so its total revenue doubles.
2. The price faced by a profit-maximizing firm is equal to its marginal cost because if price were above marginal cost, the firm could increase profits by increasing output, while if price were below marginal cost, the firm could increase profits by decreasing output.

A profit-maximizing firm decides to shut down in the short run when price is less than average variable cost. In the long run, a firm will exit a market when price is less than average total cost.
3. In the long run, with free entry and exit, the price in the market is equal to both a firm's marginal cost and its average total cost, as Figure 1 shows. The firm chooses its quantity so that marginal cost equals price, doing so ensures that the firm is maximizing its profit. In the long run, entry into and exit from the industry drive the price of the good to the minimum point on the average-total-cost curve.

Macroeconomics Study Guide Charles Johnson, Andrew B. Abel, Ben Bernanke, 1992 Macroeconomic Consequences of Demographic Change Sebastian Rausch, 2009-04-03 This book represents a culmination of my Ph D research conducted at the Ruhr Graduate School in Economics and at the University of Duisburg Essen from October 2005 to April 2008 Many people have generously contributed their time experience and resources towards the success of this dissertation First and foremost I would like to thank Prof Dr Volker Clausen a great supervisor who has always encouraged my work It has been a pleasure to work under his excellent guidance His steady engagement and support have provided me the kind of working environment that has proved to be instrumental in writing this thesis I am also grateful to my second supervisor Prof Dr Thomas F Rutherford who has inspired my work from the beginning This thesis would definitely not have been possible without his innumerable and fundamental contributions in the area of computational economics As a co author of Chapter 2 of this thesis he was a pleasure to collaborate with and learn from Critical Issues in Public Expenditure Management, 2006 Computational Economics David A. Dynamic Factor Demand in a Rationing Context Werner Smolny, 2012-12-06 A macroeconomic disequilibrium model is developed for the Federal Republic of Germany Starting with a microeconomic model of firm's behaviour the optimal dynamic adjustment of employment and investment is derived The model of the firm is complemented by an explicit aggregation procedure which allows to derive macroeconomic relations The model is estimated with macroeconomic data for the Federal Republic of Germany An important feature is the consistent introduction of dynamic adjustment into a model of the firm A new method is the particular approach of a delayed adjustment of employment and investment The estimation results show significant underutilizations of labour and capital and indicate the importance of supply constraints for imports and exports As the most prominent result they reveal the importance of the slow adjustment of employment and investment for the macroeconomic situation in Germany and especially for the persistence of high unemployment in the eighties
