a number of chapters provide excellent summaries of the modern methods available for studying fungal ecology along with those more traditional methods that are still extremely valuable overall it is a hugely valuable compendium of fungal ecology research It is a must for the library shelf Lynne Boddy Cardiff University UK Mycological Research 2006 These 44 chapters are an excellent starting point for anyone interested in fungal communities in the broadest sense of the term It is a book for dipping into may be the last comprehensive treatment of fungal communities before the molecular revolution Meriel Jones University of Liverpool UK Microbiology Today the scope of the work is tremendous Excellent chapters providing overviews of methods provide a snap shot of the current approaches used to understand fungal communities at several levels of organization This book should probably be on the shelf of every student of mycology and many ecologists too For all students this book should be a valuable resource and source of inspiration Daniel Henk Imperial College Faculty of Medicine London in Inoculum Vol 59 No 3 May 2008 Thorough taxonomic and subject indices further aid the reader in navigating through multiple authors treatments of subjects of interest Anthony Amend Department of Botany University of Hawaii at Manoa in Economic Botany V 61 In all subjects in science new findings and the use of new technologies allow us to develop an ever greater understanding of our world Expanded and updated coverage in the fourth edition includes Adds new sections on Integrating Genomics and Metagenomics into Community Analysis Recent Advances in Fungal Endophyte Research Fungi in the Built Environment and Fungal Signaling and Communication Includes a broader treatment of fungal communities in natural ecosystems with in depth coverage of fungal adaptations to stress and conservation Expands coverage of the influence of climate change on fungi and the role of fungi in organically polluted ecosystems Includes contributions from scientists from 20 nations to illustrate a true global approach for bridging gaps between ecological concepts and mycology Peterson's Guide to Graduate Programs in the Biological and Agricultural Sciences ,1990 Integrating Conservation Biology and Paleobiology to Manage Biodiversity and Ecosystems in a Changing World G. Lynn Wingard, Chris Schneider, Gregory P. Dietl , Damien Fordham, Policy makers and resource managers must make decisions that affect the resilience and sustainability of natural resources including biodiversity and ecosystem services However these decisions are often based on evidence or theory derived from highly altered systems and over short time periods of low magnitude environmental and climatic change Because natural systems change and evolve across multiple timescales from instantaneous to millennial long term understanding of how past life has responded to perturbations can inform resource managers By using these natural laboratories of the past conservation paleobiology and paleoecology provide the framework necessary to anticipate and plan for future changes The goal of this

Research Topic is to heighten awareness among conservation and restoration practitioners to the value and applications of long term perspectives provided by conservation paleobiology and paleoecology Most conservation studies focus on systems already impacted by anthropogenic change these studies would benefit from paleontological data through expanded temporal scales identification of baselines and an understanding of how organisms have responded to past changes However resource management decisions rarely include input from paleontologists and paleoecological research is rarely incorporated into conservation decision making We seek to bridge this research implementation gap by highlighting the application of paleoecological data to issues such as biodiversity dynamics extinction risks and resilience to perturbations among other topics We hope to foster new cross disciplinary synergies by encouraging conservation scientists and managers to collaborate with paleontologists to improve conservation decision making and by increasing awareness among paleontologists to the needs of the resource management community This Research Topic will provide a forum for both the paleontological and resource management communities to exchange ideas that will enhance restoration and conservation decision making We invite papers on conceptual advances reviews of specific topics to guide efforts in research or practice case studies of successful applications articles describing datasets with applied value and perspective papers summarizing a body of paleontological research with relevance to the resource management community Topics can include but are not limited to Responses of species communities and ecosystems to perturbations Strategies to achieve the direct integration of paleobiology and paleoecology into on ground resource management Identifying baselines and reference conditions Increasing the robustness of forecasting models through the incorporation of paleontological data Identifying key species interactions and other phenomena as indicators of impending change New methodologies analytical tools and or proxies in the application of paleontological data to conservation and restoration practice Lynn Wingard Damien Fordham and Greg Dietl have no conflicts of interest Chris Schneider has a potential conflict of interest where manuscripts pertain to stakeholders in the petroleum industry as she is an independent contractor in the Alberta Oil Sands mining area
