Good Practices in Health Financing Pablo Gottret, George Schieber, Hugh R. Waters, 2008-06-20 For humanitarian reasons and the concern for households economic and health security the health sector is at the center of global development policy Developing countries and the international community are scaling up health systems to meet the Millennium Development Goals MDGs and are improving financial protection by securing long term support for these gains Yet money alone cannot buy health gains or prevent impoverishment due to catastrophic medical bills well structured results based financing reforms are needed Unfortunately global evidence of successful health financing policies that can guide the reform effort is very limited and therefore the policy debate is often driven by ideological one size fits all solutions Good Practices in Health Financing Lessons from Reforms in Low and Middle Income Countries attempts to begin to fill the void by systematically assessing health financing reforms in nine low and middle income countries that have managed to expand their health financing systems to both improve health status and protect against catastrophic medical expenses The participating countries are Chile Colombia Costa Rica Estonia the Kyrgyz Republic Sri Lanka Thailand Tunisia and Vietnam The study seeks to identify common enabling factors of their good performance While the findings for each country are important collectively they send a clear message to the global community that more attention is needed to define good practice and then to evaluate and disseminate the global evidence base

The National Guide to Educational Credit for Training Programs American Council on Education,2005 Highlights over 6 000 educational programs offered by business labor unions schools training suppliers professional and voluntary associations and government agencies The Reality of Aid 2004 Judith Randel,Tony German,Deborah Ewing,2004-11-01 Since 1992 The Reality of Aid has monitored how aid and development cooperation policy and practice match up to the challenge of eliminating global poverty The Reality of Aid now reports from a network of more than 40 NGOs in Africa Asia Latin America and OECD countries Aid at less than US 60 billion is dwarfed by OECD domestic agricultural subsidies worth more than US 300 billion Most global institutions are dominated by OECD countries which ruthlessly pursue their own economic and political security agendas while insisting that developing countries adopt policies that maintain international disparities and perpetuate poverty The Reality of Aid 2004 explores the theme of governance and human rights in development cooperation using illustrations from countries such as Peru Nepal Zambia and Indonesia With reports from 20 OECD countries the Middle East and the Pacific and graphs illustrating major trends in global aid The Reality of Aid 2004 provides a unique commentary on the state of development cooperation

The Poverty Reduction Strategy Initiative William G. Battaile, Steve Kayizzi-Mugerwa, World Bank. Operations Evaluation Department, International Monetary Fund. Independent Evaluation Office, 2005 This book provides an independent assessment of the Poverty Reduction Strategy Initiative for the World Bank as well as the broader development community It offers a in depth review of the progress thus far with particular focus on the role and effectiveness of the Bank s support drawing from extensive discussions with national stakeholders in Poverty Reduction Strategy PRSP countries research and analytical work and country case study reports on ten PRSP countries Albania Cambodia Ethiopia Guinea Mauritania Mozambique Nicaragua Tajikistan Tanzania and Vietnam The author of The Poverty Reduction Strategy Initiative concludes that the Initiative has led to improvements in national strategies and processes in some low income countries such as an increased poverty focus a higher profile for monitoring results and better donor government dialogue However the contribution to broad poverty reduction especially in more difficult country environments is largely in jeopardy without significant changes The author argues that the Initiative should be reoriented toward improving domestic processes and less on completion of documents customizing the approach to particular country circumstances filling analytical gaps to better understand which actions will provide the greatest poverty pay off and making sure the assistance programs of external partners are anchored in the country s poverty reduction strategy
