Abstract

The purpose of this evaluation is to determine if Ms. Smith has the physical ability to do even sedentary work on a full-time and continuing basis. The process used in this evaluation are clinical interview with the client, a review of medical and pharmacy records, a study of vocational history and education, and a professional impression of the likelihood that a person with the physical limitations of the client can sustain gainful employment without work place accommodations and/or further education and training. Additionally, this evaluation will provide recommendations to the client regarding physical and mental wellness and referrals to medical, psychological, and vocational training providers.

Introduction

The client, Sue Smith requested a vocational evaluation to determine if there is any work that she would be able to do on a full-time and continuing basis. Currently, she is not working and has not worked at all since January 31, 2013 when she resigned her position of Store Manager for T-Mart, Inc. She states the reason she left her job is due to the severe pain that prevents her from fulfilling her work duties and responsibilities as they need to be. Ms. Smith reports that she has been unable
