Operation Tonga Jon Cooksey,2023-06-30 The seizure of Pegasus Bridge by six glider borne platoons of the Oxfordshire and Buckinghamshire Light Infantry under Major John Howard very early 6th June 1944 is one of the better known stories of D Day Landing just yards from vital bridges over the River Orne and the Caen Canal near Bnouville Howard s men took and held the bridges in a remarkable coup de main operation with minimal casualties The 7th Parachute Battalion dropped in soon afterwards to relieve Howard s men and the action remains by any standards a remarkable feat of arms But it was only one act in a much grander production put on by 6th Airborne Division that night to secure and protect the eastern flank of the Allied landings inland from Sword the British landing beach Key bridges over the Dives had to be blown to foil possible German counter attacks and to north east at Merville a battery of guns which the allied planners thought could wreak havoc on the beaches and ships at sea had to be eliminated The task fell to the men of the 9th Parachute Battalion whose actions in assaulting the Merville Battery became another D Day epic but for very different reasons Sword Beach Max

Hastings,2025-11-11 From the best selling military historian a thrilling account of the valiant British role in the D Day invasion Between 1941 and 1944 the British army contributed relatively little to World War II On the unrelentingly bloody Eastern Front no Russian or German soldier had experienced the luxury of having four years to prepare and train for a resumption of the European continental campaign But on D Day June 6 1944 the lives of British soldiers changed Thirty five thousand infantrymen airmen and special service operatives were sent headfirst into the whitest heat of war almost overnight Max Hastings s Sword Beach tells the story of a handful of British soldiers and their critical role in D Day s parachute and seaborne offensive On Sword the codename of one of the two beaches assaulted by the British scores of soldiers were killed by the first shots that they ever heard fired in anger One British corporal insisted on apologizing to his enemy prisoners and the Free French troops 120 men strong suffered 60 percent losses in the first days of fighting With his signature blend of drama and detail Hastings shows how the men who landed on Sword played a critical role in Britain s preeminent landmark victory and the most spectacular battlefield event of World War II in the West Sword Beach fills in many of the missing pieces and human stories that have long been left out of the sweeping macro stories of the Normandy invasion Based on published memoirs interviews with D Day veterans and rigorous research Hastings lends color and shade to the climactic action of the Western Front s most famous battle Sword Beach describes the lives of a small number of men on a single day who faced the immediate transition from make believe battle to the war s most violent circumstances The Water, Energy, and Food Security Nexus in Asia and the Pacific Andrew Dansie,Heidi K. Alleway,Benno Böer,2024-04-15 This open access book considers the water energy food WEF nexus in the Pacific region The region comprises seventeen sovereign countries and seven territories spread across the Pacific Ocean a blue expanse that covers a fifth of the world s surface area but contains only 0.5% of the population or 44.5 million people The uniqueness of the Pacific and the need for a

Pasifika led approach to sustainability across environmental societal and economical spheres requires this blue continent to be considered in a separate volume under the Water Security in a New World series This Pacific volume is focussed on water energy and food security in Pacific Island Countries and Territories PICTs and the challenges produced by the impacts of anthropogenic climate change and human population pressures The diversity of culture traditional knowledge and ways of life across the Pacific are united by similar geographies and opportunities to apply a Pacific specific WEF nexus approach a coordinated approach to manage water energy and food that is centred on active decision making across the three sectors to increase the security of each Importantly a WEF nexus approach builds on national and international efforts to date in the Pacific which include Integrated Water Resource Management Ridge to Reef Source to Sea UNESCO Biosphere Reserves Integrated Coastal Zone Management and other similar approaches In this book contributions by authors from governments regional bodies multilateral agencies and academia describe water security and its intersectionality with both the energy and food sectors highlighting the significance of both land and marine food systems and connectivity between water and energy in a Pacific focussed context It is demonstrated that these systems cannot be separated from the challenges associated with healthy environments and functioning ecological services transport and waste that are unique to this vast archipelagic region To achieve meaningful change it is essential that solutions are cognizant of the world s colonial past and the global inequalities that persist today The path forward for water and food systems is one that is Pasifika led and builds on traditional knowledge and local capacity National energy demands must consider the future with solutions comprising both WEF integrated approaches and new energy technologies to hasten the transition away from fossil fuels Globally major greenhouse gas emitters both past and present need to step up for the environmental and economic benefit of all by rapidly reducing greenhouse gas emissions and supporting Pasifika leadership on highly ambitious net zero goals This book is a highly recommended source of information and inspiration for policy makers decision makers research communities and practitioners dealing with any aspect of water energy or food security in the Pacific

Do Police Need Guns? Richard Evans, Clare Farmer, 2020-11-20 This book challenges what are for many people deep rooted expectations regarding the routine arming of police and compares jurisdictions in which police are routinely armed Toronto Canada and Brisbane Australia and those where police are not routinely armed Manchester England and Auckland New Zealand With a focus on Western jurisdictions and by examining a range of documentary media and data sources this book provides an evidence based examination of the question Do police really need guns This book first provides detailed insight into the armed policing tradition and perceptions expectations with respect to police and firearms A range of theoretical concepts regarding policing state power and the use of force is applied to an examination of what makes the police powerful This is set against the minimum force tradition which is typified by policing in England and Wales Consideration is also given to the role played by key tropes and constructs of popular culture Drawing on Surette s model of symbolic reality the book considers contrasting media traditions and the positioning of firearms within narrative arcs especially the role of heroes The book concludes by drawing together the key themes and findings and considering the viability of retaining and or moving towards non routinely armed police
