Objectives

- Explain how plants store & use photosynthesis to produce chemical energy
- Describe how plants use chemical energy

Getting the Idea

Chemical energy is a form of potential energy that is stored in the bonds of molecules. Plants use chemical energy to power their growth and reproduction. They use chemical energy to power their metabolism, which is the process of converting chemical energy into mechanical energy.

Cells Need Energy

Cells need energy to perform their functions. For example, cells use energy to build new molecules, to move materials across membranes, and to power their metabolism. Cells use energy to power their metabolism, which is the process of converting chemical energy into mechanical energy.
