

FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT CHAPTER 1: INTRODUCTION

A business is an activity which is carried on with the intention of earning profits. If the operations of a typical manufacturing organization are considered, it involves the purchasing of raw material, processing the same with the help of various factors of production like labor and machinery, manufacturing the final product and marketing and selling the finished product in the market to earn the profits.

Thus production, marketing and business financing are the key operational areas in case of any business organization, out of which finance is the most crucial one. This is so as the functions of production and marketing are related with the function of finance. If the decisions relating to money and funds fail, it may result in the failure of the business organization as a whole. Hence, it is utmost important to take the proper financial decisions and that too at a proper point of time.

Finance is the life-blood of the modern business economy. We cannot imagine a business without finance in the modern world. It is the basis of all economic activities, no matter, the business is big or small. The problem of finance and that of financial management is to be dealt with within every organization. The problem of finance is equally important to government, semi governments and private bodies, and to profit and nonprofit organizations.

Definition

Financial management is that managerial activity which is concerned with planning and controlling of firms' financial resources.

According to Paul. G. Hasings, "'Finance' is the management of the monetary affairs of a company. It includes determining what has to be paid for raising the money on the best terms available and devoting the available resources to best uses."

Kenneth Midgley and Ronald Burns state. "Financing is the process of organizing the flow of funds so that a business can carry out its objectives in the most efficient manner and meet its obligations as they fall due."
