Meeting the Challenges to Measurement in an Era of Accountability Henry Braun, 2016-01-29 Under pressure and support from the federal government states have increasingly turned to indicators based on student test scores to evaluate teachers and schools as well as students themselves The focus thus far has been on test scores in those subject areas where there is a sequence of consecutive tests such as in mathematics or English language arts with a focus on grades 4-8 Teachers in these subject areas however constitute less than thirty percent of the teacher workforce in a district Comparatively little has been written about the measurement of achievement in the other grades and subjects This volume seeks to remedy this imbalance by focusing on the assessment of student achievement in a broad range of grade levels and subject areas with particular attention to their use in the evaluation of teachers and schools in all It addresses traditional end of course tests as well as alternative measures such as portfolios exhibitions and student learning objectives In each case issues related to design and development psychometric considerations and validity challenges are covered from both a generic and a content specific perspective The NCME Applications of Educational Measurement and Assessment series includes edited volumes designed to inform research based applications of educational measurement and assessment Edited by leading experts these books are comprehensive and practical resources on the latest developments in the field The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license

Educational Technology and Pedagogic Encounters Yusef Waghid, 2016-07-15 This book looks at some of the underlying theories of educational technology means and ways in which this technology is guided in practice ends The authors are intent on producing ends that prepare students to undertake new analyses and evaluations that can result in new possibilities for democratic action Emphasis is on their understanding of and position within educational technology as opposed to using or applying educational technology The work is not written from the point of view that their embeddedness within educational technology has a utilitarian end in mind but rather that their situatedness within educational technology a practice in itself leaves open possibilities for new ways of understanding democratic education This book is organised into six interrelated themes that work towards the cultivation of educational technology as a human practice which guides pedagogic encounters on the basis of taking risks in relation to which the unexpected unimaginable is always possible

Education in Canada Christine D. Tippet, Todd M. Milford, 2019-07-01 This book offers a meso level description of demographics science education and science teacher education Representing all 13 Canadian jurisdictions the book provides local insights that serve as the basis for exploring the Canadian system as a whole and function as a common starting point from which to identify causal relationships that may be associated with Canada's successes The book highlights commonalities consistencies and distinctions across the provinces and territories in a thematic analysis of the 13 jurisdiction specific chapters Although the analysis indicates a network of policy and practice issues warranting further consideration the diverse nature of Canadian science education makes simple identification of causal relationships elusive Canada has a reputation for strong science achievement However there is currently limited literature on science education in Canada at the general level or in specific areas such as Canadian science curriculum or science teacher education This book fills that gap by presenting a thorough description of science education at the provincial territorial level as well as a more holistic description of pressing issues for Canadian science education Science Examinations ...
