Critical Thinking

2. Compare Suppose you observe a physical property and a chemical property of a substance. Describe what happens to the substance when each kind of property is observed.

STANDARDS CHECK

PS. 8.2 A substance has characteristic properties, such as density, a boiling point, and solubility, all of which are independent of the amount of the sample. A mixture of substances often can be separated into the original substances using one or more of the characteristic properties.

8. Applying Concepts A scientist measures three properties of a liquid. Its density is 0.8 g/cm^3 , it does not mix with water, and its flash point is -35°C . Based on the information in the table, what is the most likely identity of the liquid? Explain your answer.

COMPARING PHYSICAL AND CHEMICAL PROPERTIES

How can you tell the difference between a physical property and a chemical property? A physical property does not change the identity of a substance. Do you remember the silver and gold charms from the last section? The silver was pounded and the gold was melted to make the charms. After each charm was made, the silver charm was still silver and the gold charm was still gold.

The chemical properties of a substance can't be seen unless you change the identity of the substance. For example, you may not know a liquid is flammable until you try to light it. If it burns, it has the chemical property of flammability. However, the burned liquid has changed into new substances.

A substance always has chemical properties. A piece of wood is flammable even when it is not burning. Iron can form rust even though it has not rusted.

CHARACTERISTIC PROPERTIES

The properties that are most useful to identify a substance are called characteristic properties. These properties are constant. This means that they do not change. The characteristic properties of a substance can be physical, chemical, or both.

A piece of iron has characteristic properties that help identify it as iron. A good example of this would be density. Iron has a constant density when measured at the same temperature and pressure. Iron also rusts.

Scientists can identify a substance by studying its physical and chemical properties. The table below shows some characteristic properties of several liquids.

Property	Isobutyl alcohol	Hexane	Cacelone
Density (g/cm^3)	0.8	0.6	1.3
Dissolves or mixes with water	yes	no	no
Flash Point ($^\circ\text{C}$) (The higher the flash point, the more flammable the liquid.)	12	-60	-60
