BLUFF ROCK KATRINA M. SCHLUNKE, 2015      Bluff Rock Katrina Schlunke, 2005 The past is a problem for us We know certain events happened sometimes exactly when and yet our sometimes longing for certainty cannot be satisfied We tell stories about where we come from and so who we are We change these stories sometimes minutely sometimes radically depending upon our audiences and our task Bluff Rock is organised around the key question how do we know the past Using historical material letters memoirs a tourist brochure and local histories it focuses on the ways that the massacre of Aborigines at Bluff Rock in New England during the 1840s has been recorded and remembered It is the author's ability to lay herself on the line that makes this a courageous and even controversial text Schlunke who grew up in New England area takes this one story from early colonial Australia and looks at the many ways it is organised as a memory of Indigenous non Indigenous relations      Fictocritical Strategies Gerrit Haas, 2017-02-15 Gerrit Haas re theorises the peculiar textual conduct of ficto critical writing which inextricably intersects fictional with critical discourses as well as aesthetics with poetics and ethics The slash here signals the conjunction between a self reflexive ficto critical insight and a wider discursive ficto critical motivation In its refined form this twofold trope shifts perspective from the prevalent generic between onto the meta generic level of our textual practices Ultimately the ficto critical is thus qualified as an unheard of interventionist aesthetic of deconstruction directed at the ramifications of our textual cultures      Transdisciplinary Journeys in the Anthropocene Kate Wright, 2016-12-08 Transdisciplinary Journeys in the Anthropocene offers a new perspective on international environmental scholarship focusing on the emotional and affective connections between human and nonhuman lives to reveal fresh connections between global issues of climate change species extinction and colonisation Combining the rhythm of road travel interviews with local Aboriginal Elders and autobiographical storytelling the book develops a new form of nature writing informed by concepts from posthumanism and the environmental humanities It also highlights connections between the studied area and the global environment drawing conceptual links between the auto ethnographic accounts and international issues This book will be of great interest to scholars and postgraduates in environmental philosophy cultural studies postcolonial theory Australian studies anthropology literary and place studies ecocriticism history and animal studies Transdisciplinary Journeys in the Anthropocene may also be beneficial to studies in nature writing ecocriticism environmental literature postcolonial studies and Australian studies      Witnessing Australian Stories Kelly Jean Butler, 2017-07-28 This book is about how Australians have responded to stories about suffering and injustice in Australia presented in a range of public media including literature history films and television Those who have responded are both ordinary and prominent Australians politicians writers and scholars All have sought to come to terms with Australia's history by responding empathetically to stories of its marginalized citizens Drawing upon international scholarship on collective memory public history testimony and witnessing this book represents a cultural history of contemporary Australia It examines the forms of witnessing that dominated Australian public culture at the turn of the millennium Since the late 1980s witnessing has developed in Australia in response to the increasingly audible voices of indigenous peoples migrants and more recently asylum seekers As these voices became public they posed a challenge not only to scholars and politicians but also most importantly to ordinary citizens When former Prime Minister Kevin Rudd delivered his historic apology to Australia's indigenous peoples in February 2008 he performed an act of collective witnessing that affirmed the testimony and experiences of Aboriginal Australians The phenomenon of witnessing became crucial not only to the recognition and reparation of past injustices but to efforts to create a more cosmopolitan Australia in the present This is a vital addition to Transaction's critically acclaimed Memory and Narrative series

Decolonizing the Landscape Beate Neumeier, Kay Schaffer, 2014-01-10 How does one read across cultural boundaries The multitude of creative texts performance practices and artworks produced by Indigenous writers and artists in contemporary Australia calls upon Anglo-European academic readers viewers and critics to respond to this critical question Contributors address a plethora of creative works by Indigenous writers poets playwrights filmmakers and painters including Richard Frankland Lionel Fogarty Lin Onus Kim Scott Sam Watson and Alexis Wright as well as Durrudiya song cycles and works by Western Desert artists The complexity of these creative works transcends categorical boundaries of Western art aesthetics and literature demanding new processes of reading and response Other contributors address works by non-Indigenous writers and filmmakers such as Stephen Muecke Katrina Schlunke Margaret Somerville and Jeni Thornley all of whom actively engage in questioning their complicity with the past in order to challenge Western modes of knowledge and understanding and to enter into a more self-critical and authentically ethical dialogue with the Other In probing the limitations of Anglo-European knowledge systems essays in this volume lay the groundwork for entering into a more authentic dialogue with Indigenous writers and critics Beate Neumeier is Professor and Chair of English at the University of Cologne Her research is in gender performance and postcolonial studies Editor of the e-journal Gender Forum and the database GenderInn she has published books on English Renaissance and contemporary anglophone drama contemporary American and British Jewish literature and women's writing Kay Schaffer an Adjunct Professor in Gender Studies and Social Analysis at the University of Adelaide is the author of ten books and numerous articles at the intersections of gender culture and literary studies Her recent publications address the Stolen Generations in Australia life narratives in human rights campaigns and readings of contemporary Chinese women writers

Travel Writing from Black Australia Robert Clarke, 2015-11-19 Over the past thirty years the Australian travel experience has been Aboriginalized Aboriginality has been appropriated to furnish the Australian nation with a unique and identifiable tourist brand This is deeply ironic given the realities of life for many Aboriginal people in Australian society On the one hand Aboriginality in the form of artworks literature performances landscapes sport and famous individuals is celebrated for the way it blends exoticism mysticism multiculturalism nationalism and reconciliation On the other hand in the media cinema and travel writing Aboriginality in the form of the lived experiences of Aboriginal people has been exploited in the service of moral panic patronized in the name of white benevolence or simply ignored For many travel writers this irony the clash between different regimes of valuing Aboriginality is one of the great challenges to travelling in Australia Travel Writing from Black Australia examines the ambivalence of contemporary travelers engagements with Aboriginality Concentrating on a period marked by the rise of discourses on Aboriginality championing indigenous empowerment self determination and reconciliation the author analyses how travel to Black Australia has become for many travelers a means of discovering new and potentially transformative styles of interracial engagement Aboriginal History ,2006 An Autobiography of the Bluff Rock Massacre Katrina Maree Schlunke,1999 Feminist Periodicals ,2006 New Books on Women and Feminism ,2007 Landscapes and Learning Margaret Somerville,Kerith Power,Phoenix de Carteret,2009 Places are made after their stories Just as place names describe complex and conflicted place making aspirations so with all marks associated with the marking of places tracks the symbolic representation of these in song dance and poetic speech indeed all the technologies that join up distances into narratives they all inscribe the earth s surface with the forms of stories Of course these are not the same as the foundational myths of imperial cultures whose aim is to displace any prior discourse of place making They are stories of and as journeys passages in a double sense constitutionally incomplete because they always await their completion in the act of crossing over or meeting which of course is endless Paul Carter Landscapes and Learning maps some of these stories and passageways to open up new place making possibilities The book uses the lens of place to explore how we can respond differently to some of the major questions of our time Postcolonial global concerns such as increased displacement and migration the loss of indigenous knowledges and the imperatives of environmental degradation and climate change require critical educational responses Place studies provides new languages and fresh metaphors to open up interdisciplinary conversations in the space between local and global and indigenous and non indigenous knowledges Through its focus on the mutual constitution of bodies identities histories spaces and places place studies offers a conceptual tool for important cultural and environmental transformations Musical Islands Elizabeth Mackinlay,Brydie-Leigh Bartleet,Katelyn Barney,2009 The island is a powerful metaphor in everyday speech which extends almost naturally into several academic disciplines including musicology Islands are imagined as isolated and unique places where strange exotic different and unexpected treasures can be found by daring adventurers The magic inherent within this positioning of islands as places of discovery is an aspect which permeates the theoretical methodological and analytical boundaries of this edited book Showcasing the breadth of current musicological research in Australia and New Zealand this edited collection offers a range of subtle and innovative reflections on this concept both in established and well charted territories of music research
