

Changes and Matter

Date: _____

Hour: _____

Information: Changes in Matter

Books are made of matter. You are made of matter. "Matter" is a fancy word for the "stuff" of which all objects are made. Every day, matter is changed in different ways. For example, paper can be changed in many ways—it can be torn, folded, or burned.

A chemical change is any alteration that changes the identity of matter. For example, by passing electricity through water it can be broken down into hydrogen and oxygen. Burning paper is a chemical change because after the change takes place, the paper has been changed into different substances (like ash, carbon dioxide, etc.).

A physical change is any alteration that does not change the identity of the matter. Shredding paper does not change the paper into a different substance. Dissolving salt in water is a physical change because after the change, the salt and water are both still there.

Critical Thinking Questions

1. Explain why each of the following is a physical change.
 - a) boiling water until no water remains
Boiling the water simply changes the state of matter, but it is still H₂O before and after it is boiled.
 - b) mixing sugar with coffee
The sugar is still sugar before and after you mix it with coffee. Neither the sugar nor the coffee changes into something entirely different.
2. Explain why each of the following is a chemical change.
 - a) a car rusting
When a car rusts, the iron metal in the car changes into something else (iron oxide) which has completely different properties.
 - b) food digesting
The chemicals in the food are broken down into other chemicals during digestion.
3. Identify each of the following changes as chemical or physical by placing a C or P in each blank.
___C___ a) acid rain corroding the statue of liberty ___P___ d) melting steel
