Projects Joseph Berechman, 2010-05-26 Throughout the world the use of some kind of a formal transportation project evaluation procedure is a requirement Yet by and large these are partial in fact much weight is often placed on the initial pre engineering phases of the planning process when vital information such as accurate costs and demand projections is largely missing Moreover many of these procedures neglect to consider key issues such as project's risks capital costs financing latent demand market imperfections labor force availability and various incompatibilities between trip rates travel times and activity location As a result projects which are judged as viable under such deficient evaluation schemes may have had a significantly different projection of capital costs and demand should a well founded thorough and efficient evaluation process be used Against this background this book's main objective is to construct a comprehensive and methodical economic planning and decision making framework for the evaluation of proposed transportation infrastructure investment projects Such a framework is founded on four key principles It is based on well established economic transportation and policy analysis theoretical principles it is comprehensive enough to encompass all relevant evaluation issues it is applicable to a wide range of transportation investment projects and it is amenable to empirical application including a sensitivity analysis and alternative scenarios regarding urban regional and national developments      Road Infrastructure Planning Steen Leleur, 1995      Recent Advances in Traffic Engineering for Transport Networks and Systems Elżbieta Macioszek, Grzegorz Sierpiński, 2017-08-01 This book is a collation of numerous valuable guidelines for making decisions based on recent advances and improvement of transport systems Offering know how and discussing practical examples as well as decision making support systems it is of interest of those who face the challenge of seeking solutions to contemporary transport system problems on a daily basis including local authorities involved in planning and preparation of development strategies for specific transport related areas in both urban and regional dimension as well as representatives of business and industry who participate directly in the implementation of traffic engineering solutions. The guidelines are provided in individual chapters making it possible to address the given problem in an advanced manner and simplify the choice of appropriate strategies including those related to increasing competitiveness of public transport, identifying bus lines to potentially be serviced by electric buses, pedestrian traffic solutions, developing bike sharing systems, safety conditions in road tunnels, integrating supply chains or route planning support by means of technologically advanced systems and applications. On the other hand, since the book also addresses the new approach to theoretical models including traffic flow surveys and measurements, transport behaviours, capacity models, delay modelling and road condition modelling, it appeals to researchers and scientists studying this body of problems.

The book entitled Recent Advances in Traffic Engineering for Transport Networks and Systems includes selected papers submitted to and presented at the 14th Scientific and Technical Conference Transport Systems Theory and Practice organised by the Department of Transport Systems and Traffic Engineering at the Faculty of Transport of the Silesian University of Technology. The conference was held on 18-20 September 2017 in Katowice, Poland.

The project ran from November 1997 to March 1998 and was monitored by a steering committee with representatives of the EU member states. This book is dealing with the calculation of costs for road infrastructure and congestion and the allocation of these costs to vehicle types. It focuses on heavy goods vehicles. This is a topic of high relevance for transport policy both on the national and the EU level with a long tradition of political and scientific debate The study contains a comprehensive methodological comparison of existing models for calculating road capital values and capital costs and for allocating infrastructure costs to vehicle types
