The China Review, Or, Notes and Queries on the Far East, 1895 The Chinese Students' Christian Journal, 1918 The Right to Leave and Return and Chinese Migration Law Guofu Liu, 2007 Although the Right to Leave and Return RLR is a fundamental human right each State has the sovereign right to regulate RLR in accordance with its own laws In the case of China the country's communist political system has significantly affected the development of RLR and the country's approach to it As a rule China's approach is restrictive As part of its reform and opening up policies China has embarked on a range of reforms to liberalise RLR but the reforms lack cohesion and focus and remain restrictive Given its past and its complex social and economic conditions China may have some justifications for its approach but on balance has more to gain from adopting a more liberal approach The issue of RLR in China is crucial both for the future of China and for development of RLR in the world The Right to Leave and Return RLR and Chinese Migration Law provides a comprehensive and systematic review of the RLR in international and Chinese migration law It has been written on the basis of Chinese statutes pertinent to the RLR also of relevant international instruments and key cases It investigates RLR in international migration law and practice analyses RLR in the context of China and identifies its driving factors investigates the conditions and practical concerns relevant to the protection of RLR and concludes with recommendations on how the Chinese regulatory regime governing RLR can be improved

Everyland, 1913 Return Migration in the Asia Pacific Robyn R. Iredale, Fei Guo, Santi Rozario, 2003-01-01 There are few studies on return migration in general and even fewer on migrants who have returned to their home countries in the Asian and Pacific region Much is heard about brain drain but much less about brain drain reversal This book is to be welcomed as the first multi country study to be published on the return of skilled and business migrants and the impact that they can have on their home economies in Asia and the Pacific That impact is shown to be various and to change over time the contributions clearly varying depending upon the nature of the environments to which the migrants have returned The book presents valuable material from Bangladesh China Taiwan and Viet Nam together with a contextual analysis of migrant communities from these economies in Australia Ronald Skeldon University of Sussex UK Globalisation and social transformation theorists have paid significantly less attention to the movement of people than they have to the movement of capital This book redresses the balance and provides timely insights into recent developments in return skilled migration in four regions in the Asia Pacific Bangladesh China Taiwan and Vietnam The authors believe that the movement of skilled migrants and the tacit knowledge they bring with them is a vital component in the process of globalisation The Advocate of Peace ,1910 Report of the Royal Commission Appointed to Inquire Into the Methods by Which Oriental Labourers Have Been Induced to Come to Canada Canada.
