KNOW YOUR BAJAJ STORAGE WATER HEATER

How does it function?

1. Every Bajaj Storage Water heater unit is made of
 - a. an outer body, inner tank, heating element
 - b. safety devices like Safety valve, Thermostat, Thermal cut-out, Fusible plugs and
 - c. Thermal insulation to retain heat.
2. Water comes into the inner tank through the inlet pipe at normal working pressure of about 30 P.S.I.
3. When the tank is full (this becomes clear when water starts flowing through the outlet) close the outlet and switch ON the power supply.
4. The heating element heats up the water to a pre-fixed temperature. At this point the Thermostat automatically switches OFF the power supply to the unit which is indicated by the switching OFF of green lamp.
5. You can now take the water out through the outlet. Because of the design of the heater & displacement principle, fresh cold water keeps entering through the inlet.
6. As temperature of water inside the tank drops, the Thermostat again switches ON the power supply to the heater. When this happens, water starts heating up again. This process continues till you switch OFF the main power supply to the heater after usage.
7. Since it takes a longer time for the water to heat up in storage water heater, it is advisable to switch ON the power supply to the unit well in advance of the actual usage.
8. During normal functioning, red lamp does not glow. In case it glows, call the nearest Bajaj Sales and Service Centre as it indicates that thermostat may be defective.
