Introduction/Questions

- Write the equation for the reaction of sodium and chlorine (chlorine gas) to form sodium chloride.

- Write the equation for the reaction of sodium nitrate and sodium chloride to produce sodium chloride and sodium nitrate.

Information: Subscripts and Coefficients

It is important to understand that when you have subscripts in a compound, the number of Cl atoms here is the subscript and the 2 is that there are two chlorine atoms bonded to one sodium.

A coefficient tells you how many molecules of a compound there are, that is a different way. For example in the equation: "1 NaCl" the 1 is the coefficient. The 1 is not there in the first, there are three molecules of water present. In the equation "1 NaCl" there are a total of 1 sodium atoms and 1 chlorine atom.

Balance Chemical Equations

- Balance the gas phase reaction between  $H_2$  and  $Cl_2$ . 3/1
- Balance the gas phase reaction for each of the following:

Information: How To Balance Equations

Consider the reaction of sodium and chlorine to produce sodium chloride (halogenation):

$$Na + Cl_2 \rightarrow NaCl$$

Remember that when chlorine is the reactant it is always written as  $Cl_2$ . On the product side of the equation, there must always be a total of two atoms of chlorine, but on the product side there is only one atom of chlorine. Atomic masses are also important. In order to balance equations for gases, we use the ideal gas law equation. This can be done. But, by adding a "2" to the product side:
