4. If the crankshaft is a tapered type, from the end view of the crankshaft, lift the crankshaft and push the seal into the crankcase as far as it will go, with its chamfered end toward the crankshaft.
5. Bevel crankcase for all "C" models are machined at the lower front and upper rear edges of the No. 2, 4 side front main-bearing to accept the pins installed in two thrust washers. Obtain two plain thrust washers and two with the chamfer flange installed on the crankcase. Slide the plain half washers into the No. 2, 4 side crankcase from the front; the chamfer half washers against the crankshaft thrust flange, and secure each complete washer with the chamfer flange in a crankcase notch. (See Figure 28.)

NOTES:

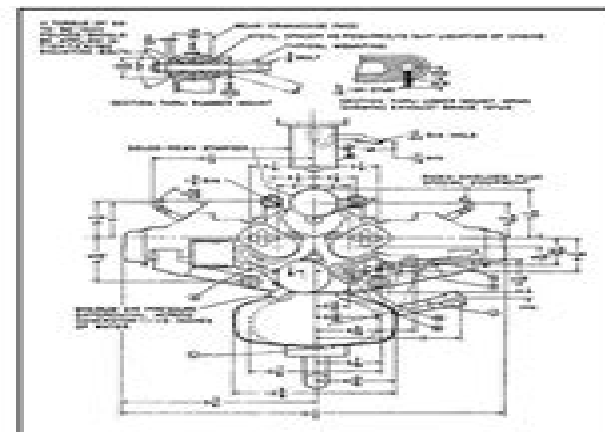

On the O-200 the front and rear thrust flanges are manufactured on the front main-bearing. Before inserting the through bolts in the front main-bearing, pull the crankshaft up against the rear of the front main-bearing to seat the front main-bearing against the thrust flange of bearing against the bearing support base. Torque through bolts and back-bolt bolts.

The current "C" and O-200 models have the crankcase assemblies machined on the front main-bearing bases to accommodate a plain main-bearing and flange, or ring-type thrust washers. Crankcases not machined for the above type thrust washers must use the available flange type main-bearing.

6. Insert a thickness gauge between the crankshaft front thrust flange and the thrust washer or between the front thrust flange and the flange of the front main-bearing of the O-200. With the crankshaft drawn forward, measure the end clearance. (Refer to Section O-200.)
