

Controlling Chemical Reactions

Understanding Main Issues

Reaction progress diagrams present questions that either you yourself feel is a separate study, or not.

1. How does temperature affect concentrations and equilibrium constants? Remember that differences in the graphs above, the exothermic endothermic reactions, which have the product, from the reactants side.
2. Temp. is the activation energy, defined as a minimum energy required for a reaction to occur. Activation energy is the energy difference between the reactants and products.
3. Explain how temperature affects the reaction rate. Reaction rate is the change in concentration of a reactant or product over time. The rate of a reaction is affected by temperature, concentration, and surface area. The rate of a reaction is also affected by the presence of a catalyst, which lowers the activation energy.

Equilibrium Chemistry

Le Chatelier's principle is used to determine the effect of changes in conditions on the position of equilibrium.

1. Le Chatelier's principle is a principle that states that if a system at equilibrium is subjected to a change in conditions, the system will shift in a direction that opposes the change.

2. Le Chatelier's principle is a principle that states that if a system at equilibrium is subjected to a change in conditions, the system will shift in a direction that opposes the change.
