

Critical thinking application paper example

Have had a bad sense of self-concept for a far back as can remember. I have grown up with parents that have told me what to do, how to do it, and when to do it just about all my life. I let it spill over into my adult life as well. My mother controlled just about my every move up until just about five years ago. In turn I had little to no concept of who I was or will become it was whatever my mother wanted me to be or do for her. Finally broke free of her hold on me and started to view who I was and who I wanted to become.

It is still an ongoing struggle for me to figure this out. But am now becoming the woman that want to be by letting go of her and her control over me. Am back in school working on the degree that want to have. Am working on my relationship with my daughters and husband to be a good mother and wife to them as well as a good person to myself. Believe because of this type of upbringing I have become self-serving biased to a lot of things in my life. Loud almost always see others that have grown in their lives, like when my younger sister graduated from college I felt like a allure because I felt should have graduated before her because I was older than her. Instead of being happy for her and congratulating her on her accomplishments felt sorry for myself. This I think leads back to my mother telling me I would never make anything of myself and I should just go back to my husband and me a wife and mother and stay home like should be doing because I could never do anything else with my life. Eave since change my ways of thinking with a lot of help from my daughters and current husband. I tell myself often that I am a good person, I cannot control others but can control myself and not have someone else control me. Besides fueling the original anger, venting anger more often results in guilt, lowered self-esteem, mild depression, anxiety, embarrassment, and an exacerbation of the original conflict (Atavist, 1982: Overall, 1 982). This is how felt for many years, I had all of the above feelings growing up in a home where your mother resented the relationship I had with my father.

Many times I felt she did not want me around and tried to make my life misery telling my father lies of things that I did to make him mad at me. She would do just about anything to make him punish me, things my sister did she would tell him did and that made both my sister and very angry and most times my sister would be so angry that she would go out and do something else that was destructive and in turn my mother would tell my father that I did it. I ended up leaving home at 18 and did not come back for 4 years when my father had his first heart attack and ended up in the hospital.

Applying Critical Thinking in Solving Occupational Health Safety Issues Patrick Kimuyu, 2018-07-18 Essay from the year

2018 in the subject Health Public Health grade 1 Egerton University language English abstract In daily life ethical reasoning serves as the touchstone of solving disputes However ethical reasoning alone is not sufficient to guarantee reliable reasoning outcomes It requires the precepts of critical thinking It is apparent that a critical thinker is able to respond to any ethical issue and formulate a reasonable solution From a philosophical approach critical thinking enables people to interpret behavior or analyze an event which is usually an outcome of a certain behavior from what he knows As such people are able to distinguish facts from fiction For instance critical thinking perspectives can help in solving an employment dispute Therefore this paper applies critical thinking to identify who should bear the responsibility for accident in which a company employee sustained injury from a table saw Resources in Education ,1993-07 Journal of Developmental Education ,2002 Critical Thinking Francis Watanabe Dauer,1989 A demanding introduction to logic and critical thinking this book offers more traditional means of teaching the art of reasoning at a time when the field has become almost mathematical Francis Dauer has rethought the framework for teaching reasoning in general and formal logic in particular the desired epistemological context and the role of the fallacies The result is a coherent and very readable work informed by Dauer s extensive experience teaching and writing on the subject Fearon's Practical English and Critical Thinking Fearon Staff,Marna Owen,1990 Critical Thinking, Interactive Learning and Technology Thomas J.
