Back to Angola Paul Morris, 2014-03-05 In 1987 Paul Morris went to Angola as a reluctant conscript soldier where he experienced the fear and filth of war Twenty five years later in 2012 Paul returned to Angola and embarked on a 1500 kilometre cycle trip solo and unsupported across the country His purpose was to see Angola in peacetime to replace the war map in his mind with a more contemporary peace map to exorcise the ghosts of war once and for all Shifting skilfully between present and past Back to Angola chronicles Paul s epic journey from Cuito Cuanavale to the remnants of his unit s base in northern Namibia and vividly recreates his experiences as a young soldier caught up in a war in a foreign land Along the way the book provides thought provoking reflections on childhood masculinity violence trauma and friendship Back to Angola is an honest intelligent and deeply moving account of war and its effects on an individual mind a generation of people and the psyche and landscape of a country

Targeting Peace Dr Mikael Eriksson, 2013-03-28 In recent years the international community has increasingly come to abandon the use of comprehensive sanctions in favour of targeted sanctions Unlike adopting a coercive strategy on entire states actors like the United Nations UN and the European Union EU have come to resort to measures that are aimed at individuals groups and government members Targeted sanctions involve adopting measures such as asset freezes travel bans commodity sanctions as well as arms embargoes Eriksson argues that recent changes in the practice of sanctions from comprehensive to targeted sanctions requires a new way of understanding international sanctions practice Not only do we need to rethink our methodology to assess recent practice but also to rethink the very theory of sanctions This valuable new perspective provides recent thinking on targeted sanctions trends in practice and unique case studies for evaluation Based on substantial research this is a must read for students scholars and practitioners interested in international politics
