How to Make a Lava Lamp

What Happened

A lava lamp works because of two different scientific principles: density and polarity.

Density is the measurement of how compact a substance is. The denser it is, the more it will sink.

If you mix oil and water, you'll find that the water is heavier than the oil, so it sinks to the bottom of the oil.

Adding food coloring to the oil and water makes things happen. The water molecules are "polar" because they have a positive electrical charge and a negative electrical charge.

Oil molecules, however, are non-polar. They don't have a positive charge, so they are not attracted to the water molecules at all. This is why oil and water don't mix. Instead of mixing, a light color separates from the dark color. The water molecules are "polar" because they have a positive electrical charge and a negative electrical charge. The water molecules are "polar" because they have a positive electrical charge and a negative electrical charge.

Science

What You Do

- Step 1: Fill the flask with oil.
- Step 2: Fill the flask with water.
- Step 3: Add a few drops of food coloring.
- Step 4: Break an Alka-Seltzer tablet into pieces and add them to the flask. Watch what happens!
- Step 5: Add more Alka-Seltzer tablets if needed.
