Television and the Making of Richard Nixon William T. Horner, 2022-07-28 While Richard Nixon's accomplishments and shortcomings are well documented one often ignored aspect of his career is his influence on the media conduct of politicians Nixon pioneered the use of visual media in politics beginning in the 1940s during his Congressional service His historic Checkers speech was the first of its kind a politician using television to save his political career His appearances on entertainment television which are now a normal feature of most national political campaigns broke new ground as well This book details the blueprint Nixon set for using television to achieve political goals Presidents have often used innovative media as strategic methods of communication and public relations The author argues that Nixon pioneered television media using it consistently to connect with the American public The American Journey Joyce Oldham Appleby, Alan Brinkley, James M. McPherson, 2003

Democracy's Capital Lauren Pearlman, 2019-09-10 From its 1790 founding until 1974 Washington D C capital of the land of the free lacked democratically elected city leadership Fed up with governance dictated by white stakeholders federal officials and unelected representatives local D C activists catalyzed a new phase of the fight for home rule Amid the upheavals of the 1960s they gave expression to the frustrations of black residents and wrestled for control of their city Bringing together histories of the carceral and welfare states as well as the civil rights and Black Power movements Lauren Pearlman narrates this struggle for self determination in the nation's capital She captures the transition from black protest to black political power under the Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon administrations and against the backdrop of local battles over the War on Poverty and the War on Crime Through intense clashes over funds and programming Washington residents pushed for greater participatory democracy and community control However the anticrime apparatus built by the Johnson and Nixon administrations curbed efforts to achieve true home rule As Pearlman reveals this conflict laid the foundation for the next fifty years of D C governance connecting issues of civil rights law and order and urban renewal

Doing Time on the Outside Donald Braman, 2007-08-06 Stigma shame and hardship this is the lot shared by families whose young men have been swept into prison Braman reveals the devastating toll mass incarceration takes on the parents partners and children left behind Katherine S Newman Doing Time on the Outside brings to life in a compelling way the human drama and tragedy of our incarceration policies Donald Braman documents the profound economic and social consequences of the American policy of massive imprisonment of young African American males He shows us the link between the broad scale policy changes of recent decades and the isolation and stigma that these bring to family members who have a loved one in prison If we want to understand fully the impact of current criminal justice policies this book should be required reading Mark Mauer Assistant Director The Sentencing Project Through compelling stories and thoughtful analysis this book describes how our nation's punishment policies have caused incalculable damage to the fabric of family and community life Anyone concerned about the future of urban America should read this book Jeremy

Travis The Urban Institute In the tradition of Elijah Anderson's Code of the Street and Katherine Newman's No Shame in My Game this startling new ethnography by Donald Braman uncovers the other side of the incarceration saga the little told story of the effects of imprisonment on the prisoners families Since 1970 the incarceration rate in the United States has more than tripled and in many cities urban centers such as Washington D C it has increased over five fold Today one out of every ten adult black men in the District is in prison and three out of every four can expect to spend some time behind bars But the numbers don't reveal what it's like for the children wives and parents of prisoners or the subtle and not so subtle effects mass incarceration is having on life in the inner city Author Donald Braman shows that those doing time on the inside are having a ripple effect on the outside reaching deep into the family and community life of urban America Braman gives us the personal stories of what happens to the families and communities that prisoners are taken from and return to Carefully documenting the effects of incarceration on the material and emotional lives of families this groundbreaking ethnography reveals how criminal justice policies are furthering rather than abating the problem of social disorder Braman also delivers a number of genuinely new arguments Among these is the compelling assertion that incarceration is holding offenders unaccountable to victims communities and families The author gives the first detailed account of incarceration's corrosive effect on social capital in the inner city and describes in poignant detail how the stigma of prison pits family and community members against one another Drawing on a series of powerful family portraits supported by extensive empirical data Braman shines a light on the darker side of a system that is failing the very families and communities it seeks to protect
