Passage -2

A moral act must be our own act; must spring from our own will. If we act mechanically, there is no moral content in our act. Such action would be moral, if we think it proper to act like a machine and do so. For, in doing so, we use our discrimination. We should bear in mind the distinction between acting mechanically and acting intentionally. It may be moral of acting to pardon a culprit. But the messenger carrying out the order of pardon plays only a mechanical part in the king's moral act. But if the messenger went to carry out the king's order considering it to be his duty, his action would be a moral one. Here duty is much understood morality who does not use his own intelligence and power of thought, but lets himself be swept along like a log of wood by a current! - Read the following passage and answer the items that follow. Your answer to these items should be based on the passage only.
- Passage
- A country under foreign domination seeks escape from the present in dreams of a vanished age, and finds consolation in visions of past greatness. That is a foolish and dangerous pastime in which many of us indulge. An equally questionable practice for us in India is to imagine that we are still spiritually great though we have come down in the world in other respects. Spiritual or any other greatness cannot be founded on lack of freedom and opportunity, or on starvation and misery. Many western writers have recognized that nations that lack are either 'worldly. I suppose the poor and underclass in every country become to some extent other-worldly, unless they become revolutionaries, for this world is evidently not meant for them. So also subject peoples.
- As a man grows to maturity he is not entirely impressed in, or satisfied with, the external objective world. He seeks also some inner meaning, some psychological and physical satisfactions. So also with peoples and civilisations as they mature and grow adult. Every civilisation and every people on earth share parallel stages of an external life and an inner life. When they mature or begin to rise to each other, there is an equilibrium and stability. When they diverge conflict arises and the crises that torture the mind and spirit.
27. The passage mentions that "this world is evidently not meant for them". It refers to people who
- seek freedom from foreign domination
  - live in starvation and misery
  - become revolutionaries
- Which of the statements given above is/are correct?

c) 2 and 3 only      d) 1, 2 and 3

28. Consider the following assumptions:
- A country under foreign domination cannot indulge in spiritual pursuit
  - Poverty is an impediment in the spiritual pursuit
  - Subject peoples may become other-worldly.
- With reference to the passage, which of the above assumptions is/are valid?
- a) 1 and 2      b) 2 only
c) 2 and 3      d) 3 only
29. The passage dramatically centres on
- the state of mind of oppressed people
  - starvation and misery
  - the growth of civilisation
  - body, mind and spirit of people in general
30. According to the passage, the torture of the mind and spirit is caused
- by the impact of foreign domination
  - by the desire to escape from foreign domination and find consolation in visions of past greatness
  - due to lack of equilibrium between an external life and an internal life
  - due to one's inability to be either revolutionary or other-worldly.

Directions for the following 4 (four) items:

Read the following passage and answer the items that follow. Your answer to these items should be based on the passage only.

Passage

A species that exerts an influence out of proportion to its abundance in an ecosystem is called a keystone species. The keystone species may influence both the species richness of communities and the flow of energy and materials through ecosystems. The sea star Pisaster ochraceus, which lives in rocky intertidal ecosystems on the Pacific coast of North America, is also an example of a keystone species. Its preferred prey is the mussel Mytilus californianus. In the absence of sea stars, these mussels crowd out other competitors in a broad belt of the intertidal zone. By consuming mussels, sea stars create bare space that are taken over by a variety of other species.

A study at the University of Washington demonstrated the influence of Pisaster on species richness by removing sea stars from selected parts of the intertidal zone repeatedly over a period of five years. Two major changes occurred in the areas from which sea stars were removed. First, the lower edge of the mussel belt extended farther down into the intertidal zone, showing that sea stars are able to eliminate mussels completely where they are covered with water most of the time. Second, and more dramatically, 28 species of animals and algae disappeared from the sea star removed zone. Eventually only Mytilus, the dominant competitor, occupied the entire subtidal zone. Through its effect on competitive relationships, predation by Pisaster largely determines which species live in these rocky intertidal ecosystems.

44. What is the crux of the passage?
- Sea star has a preferred prey
  - A preferred prey determines the survival of a keystone species
  - Keystone species maintains species diversity
  - Sea star is the only keystone species on the Pacific coast of North America
45. With reference to the passage, consider the following statements:
- Mussels are generally the dominant species in intertidal ecosystems
  - The survival of sea stars is primarily determined by the abundance of mussels
- Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
- a) 1 only      b) 2 only
c) Both 1 and 2      d) Neither 1 nor 2
46. Which of the following is/are implied by the passage?
- Mussels are always hard competitors for sea stars
  - Sea stars of the Pacific coast have reached the climax of their evolution
  - Sea stars constitute an important component in the energy flow in intertidal ecosystems
- Which of the statement given above is/are correct?
- a) 1 and 2      b) 2 only
c) 1 and 3      d) 3 only
47. Consider the following assumptions:
- The food chain/survived only in an ecosystem are influenced by keystone species
  - The presence of keystone species is a specific characteristic of aquatic ecosystems
  - If the keystone species is completely removed from an ecosystem, it will lead to the collapse of the ecosystem.
- With reference to the passage, which of the above assumptions is/are valid?
- a) 1 only      b) 2 and 3 only
c) 1 and 3 only      d) 1, 2 and 3
