User's Guide--computer Program for Three-dimensional Analysis of Building Systems (CTABS80) Edward L. Wilson,1981
This report is a user s guide for CTABS80 a computer program for the linear three dimensional structural analysis of multistory frame and shear wall buildings subjected to static or dynamic loadings In CTABS80 the building is idealized as an assemblage of vertical independent frame and shear wall systems interconnected by horizontal floor diaphragms which are rigid in their own plane The frame and shear wall systems must basically be of rectangular geometry in elevation with vertical columns or piers and horizontal beams or spandrels However with special modeling techniques very complex situations may be considered A special shear panel element is developed to enable modeling of discontinuous shear walls and shear walls with arbitrary openings A diagonal bracing element to model braced frames X braced K braced or eccentrically braced systems is also presented The column shear panel and diagonal formulations include the effects of bending axial and shear deformations Bending and shear deformations are also included in the beam formulation however the effects of axial deformations are neglected The effects of the finite dimensions of the beams and columns on the stiffness of a frame or shear wall system are automatically included User's Guide for Computer Program CGFAG, Concrete General Flexure
