The Baby Boom

Directions: Read the paragraph below and study the graph carefully. Then answer the questions that follow.

The term Baby Boom refers to the years 1946 to 1964 when the population of the United States increased due to a dramatic postwar increase in the general birthrate. The birthrate had been declining early steadily for decades, falling below 20 births per 1,000 people for the first time in 1924. In 1941, however, the birthrate jumped back up more 20 and stayed above that figure through 1964. At the height of the Baby Boom, from 1954 to 1961, more than 4 million babies were born in the United States every year. Many women who might have started children at other times decided to have children. This coincides with almost the "prevalent social values" that characterized the period. "These values reflect upon children more as end-in-themselves and considered secondary to (not having children) was almost evidence of a physical or mental deficiency."
