Aviation author Kev Darling looks at the origins of the World War Two Royal Air Force commands and histories in RAF Strike Command In 1968 the RAF Commands that had become famous in World War Two Fighter Bomber Coastal Air Support and Signals Commands were combined into the single Strike Command an amalgamation that served throughout the remaining years of the Cold War in the Falklands and in the Middle East in Operations Desert Shield Desert Storm and Granby This organizational change caused re equipment base changes and increasing economic constraints The Royal Navy was now responsible for the UK s nuclear deterrent in the form of their Polaris submarines so the RAF s V Bomber Force were now relegated to tanker operations with the exception of the lone Vulcan that was sent to the Falklands conflict The Command s fleet of fast jets became more adaptable with single types assuming the roles of fighter bomber reconnaissance and maritime attack The aircraft also became multinational in their design and manufacture as Britain s postwar lead in aircraft design had been frittered away by years of thoughtless government leading to a single company for production Apart from the brilliant Harrier which the US continues to develop and build other aircraft flown by the Command were from European syndicates such as the Tornado and Jaguar The US supplied the transports in the form of the faithful Hercules and Europe most of the helicopter fleet Exploring the operations that took place during this military wing s existence the aircraft they flew and the men who flew them RAF Strike Command is a tribute to the fast dwindling power of the Royal Air Force      Interavia ,1996
