Graphic Novels and Comics as World

Literature James Hodapp,2022-04-07 Graphic narratives are one of the world s great art forms but graphic novels and comics from Europe and the United States dominate scholarly conversations about them Building upon the little extant scholarship on graphic narratives from the Global South this collection moves beyond a narrow Western approach to this quickly expanding field By focusing on texts from the Middle East Africa Latin America and Asia these essays expand the study of graphic narratives to a global scale Graphic Novels and Comics as World Literature is also interested in how these texts engage with fit in with or complicate notions of World Literature The larger theoretical framework of World Literature is joined with the postcolonial decolonial Global South and similar approaches that argue explicitly or implicitly for the viability of non Western graphic narratives on their own terms Ultimately this collection explores the ways that the unique formal qualities of graphic narratives from the Global South intersect with issues facing the study of international literatures such as translation commodification circulation Orientalism and many others

Literacy and the Politics of Writing

Albertine Gaur,2000-01-01 With the growth of modern information technology it is time to re examine the concept and purpose of writing and question the long cherished idea that the alphabet stands at the apex of a hierarchy towards which all proper forms of writing must necessarily progress This book shows that the primary purpose of writing is the ability to store and transmit information information essential to the social economical and political survival of a particular group Writing in whatever form allows the individual the interact with the group to acquire an amount of knowledge that far outweighs the scope of memory oral traditions and to be free to manipulate this knowledge and arrive at new conclusion Providing a quick and easy entrance to information related to the subject the volume contains a network of references leading the reader towards further information and most entries are listed with bibliographical notes

Love Poetry and Songs from the Ancient Egyptians Gilbert

Moore,2015-07-15 During the reigns of Ramses II and his successors from about 1300 BC to 1150 BC a social class of well educated secular royal scribes and temple craftsmen appeared in Ancient Egypt rivaling the traditional priesthood in cultural influence if not power In their hands a new genre of literature took shape Secular love poetry depicting in hieratic script real flesh and blood men and women expressing real emotions and speaking to one another with real often erotic and tender human feelings for the first time Unfortunately this state of affairs was to last only as long as the reigns of Ramses II and his immediate successors Roughly 100 years The translations edited and presented in this third edition represent the collective effort of at least three generations of Egyptologists dating back to the late 19th century and reaching a highpoint in the translations of Miriam Lichtheim in the 1970s and the recent efforts of Bernard Mathieu and others

Moses in Egypt

The Cradle on the Nile

I Just a baby in a cradle on the waters of the Nile

Then a leader moves a nation like an army rank and file

This is how God works

His wonders without trumpet or display

And we know not what is rocking in the cradle of to day

Who will solve the nation s problems level mountains tame the seas

Crystalize in splendid action visions of the centuries

Who will lead the world to morrow in its upward onward way

Hush we know not what is rocking in the cradle of to day

Lips are moulding now in silence the illuminating word

Hearts are beating splendid measures that we never yet have heard

Comes a face with light upon it

God behind a face of clay

Oh we know not what is rocking in the cradle of to day

On some Nile amidst the rushes dreaming hidden from our view

There may be a master workman who shall make this old world new
