Chesapeake Bay Report Card 2008 ,2009      Ebook: Environmental Science: A Global Concern William

Cunningham,Mary Cunningham,2014-10-16 Environmental Science A Global Concern is a comprehensive presentation of environmental science for non science majors which emphasizes critical thinking environmental responsibility and global awareness This book is intended for use in a one or two semester course in environmental science human ecology or environmental studies at the college or advanced placement high school level As practicing scientists and educators the Cunningham author team brings decades of experience in the classroom in the practice of science and in civic engagement This experience helps give students a clear sense of what environmental science is and why it matters in this exciting new 13th edition Environmental Science A Global Concern provides readers with an up to date introductory global view of essential themes in environmental science The authors balance evidence of serious environmental challenges with ideas about what we can do to overcome them An entire chapter focuses on ecological restoration one of the most important aspects of ecology today Case studies in most chapters show examples of real progress and What Can You Do lists give students ideas for contributing to solutions      Ecosystem-Based Management for the Oceans Karen McLeod,Heather

Leslie,2012-09-26 Conventional management approaches cannot meet the challenges faced by ocean and coastal ecosystems today Consequently national and international bodies have called for a shift toward more comprehensive ecosystem based marine management Synthesizing a vast amount of current knowledge Ecosystem Based Management for the Oceans is a comprehensive guide to utilizing this promising new approach At its core ecosystem based management EBM is about acknowledging connections Instead of focusing on the impacts of single activities on the delivery of individual ecosystem services EBM focuses on the array of services that we receive from marine systems the interactive and cumulative effects of multiple human activities on these coupled ecological and social systems and the importance of working towards common goals across sectors Ecosystem Based Management for the Oceans provides a conceptual framework for students and professionals who want to understand and utilize this powerful approach And it employs case studies that draw on the experiences of EBM practitioners to demonstrate how EBM principles can be applied to real world problems The book emphasizes the importance of understanding the factors that contribute to social and ecological resilience the extent to which a system can maintain its structure function and identity in the face of disturbance Utilizing the resilience framework professionals can better predict how systems will respond to a variety of disturbances as well as to a range of management alternatives Ecosystem Based Management for the Oceans presents the latest science of resilience while it provides tools for the design and implementation of responsive EBM solutions      Bridging the Chesapeake David W. Guth,2017-03-24 When the first span of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge opened July 30 1952 it was a watershed moment in Marylands history The construction of the bridge took political courage creative engineering people working together and a determination to overcome pettiness In this detailed history journalism professor David W Guth traces the bridges history from its planning to its post construction effects on the region From his boyhood memories of the bridge to the details of its construction the book also tells the story of the people of Maryland often referred to as a confederacy of two shores The recurring themes during the debate over building the first the second and now possibly a third bridge highlight issues confronting all Americans including social and political equality the price of unrestrained growth the role government should play in our lives and the importance of enlightened and courageous leadership While there were unintended consequences that went along with building a bridge to cross the Chesapeake it began the process of removing social political racial cultural and economic barriers

EPA's 2008 Report on the Environment ,2008 The report provides the American people with an important resource from which they can better understand trends in the condition of the air water land and human health of the United States This report uses scientifically sound measures called indicators to address fundamental questions relevant to the EPA's mission to protect the environment and human health To accomplish its mission to protect human health and the environment EPA must pay close attention to trends in the condition of the Nation's environment This kind of information which is captured in EPA's 2008 ROE can help EPA to prioritize its work and to focus on human health and ecological activities that can lead to improvements in the conditions of the Nation's environment

Missing the Mark in the Chesapeake Bay William L. Andreen, Robert L. Glicksman, Rena I. Steinzor, Ling-Yee Huang, Shana Jones, 2015 Momentum for Chesapeake Bay restoration has advanced significantly in the past two years shaped by the combination of President Obama's Chesapeake Bay Protection and Restoration Executive Order and the EPA's Bay wide Total Maximum Daily Load TMDL process These federal initiatives taken in partnership with the Bay states required the Bay states and the District of Columbia to submit Watershed Implementation Plans WIPs to demonstrate how they will meet the pollution targets in the applicable TMDLs In August the Center for Progressive Reform sent the Chesapeake Bay watershed jurisdictions Delaware Maryland New York Pennsylvania Virginia West Virginia and the District of Columbia metrics by which our panel of water quality experts would judge the strength of the plans we also submitted comments to the states in November on their draft plans The states final plans were submitted to EPA in November and December The state plans fail to provide a specific roadmap for restoring the Bay CPR says today in Missing the Mark in the Chesapeake Bay A Report Card for the Phase I Watershed Implementation Plans press release The report was written by CPR Member Scholars William Andreen Robert Glicksman and Rena Steinzor and CPR executive director Shana Jones and policy analyst Yee Huang Our report found that the state plans all underperformed to varying degrees on the two primary areas for evaluation transparency of information and strength of program design While improvements from the drafts the final plans were light on providing specific commitments for actions needed to achieve the required pollution reductions and generally did not pledge dedicated funding for the proposed programs The plans generally did not establish a baseline for existing programs effectiveness to allow the public to monitor future performance in implementing the pollution reduction controls      E-Governance and Civic Engagement: Factors and Determinants of E-Democracy Manoharan, Aroon, Holzer, Marc, 2011-10-31 This book examines how e government facilitates online public reporting two way communication and debate online citizen participation in decision making and citizen satisfaction with e governance Provided by publisher      Managing Urban Rivers Victor R.
