Template scope and purpose

This Clinical Study Report (CSR) Template is specifically designed to be used in conjunction with the Clinical Study Protocol (CSP) Template.

The structure and sections as well as their order and content follow the International Council for Harmonisation (ICH) E3 guidelines for CSRs, as recommended by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA). As such, this CSR Template is the foundation for an "integrated" full report of any study with a therapeutic, prophylactic, or diagnostic agent (i.e., drug or treatment) conducted in patients or healthy volunteers.

Note that, if conducting a study with healthy volunteers, these may be referred to as "subjects" instead of "patients", except where subjects have become patients due to adverse events (AEs).

Per the ICH guidelines, the clinical and statistical description, presentation, and analyses are to be integrated into a single report (i.e., the CSR), incorporating tables and figures into the main text of the CSR or at the end of the text, with appendices containing such information as the CSP, sample case report forms, and investigator-related information. Information related to the test drugs/investments (TOC), products (also referred to as study products), including active control/comparators, is to be technical statistical documentation, related publications, patient data, as long as technical statistical details, such as derivations, computations, and reported per computer output. Note that the CSR of a study should not be created or reported per a separate clinical and statistical report. Although this CSR Template was developed for the most common efficacy and safety clinical studies (e.g., as clinical trials), the basic principles and structure can be applied to other studies, such as clinical pharmacology studies (e.g., PK/PD studies), biomarker of exposure [BOE] studies). Depending on the nature of such studies, a less detailed report might be acceptable.

Becoming A Successful Clinical Trial Investigator P. K. Julka,2009* Targeted Regulatory Writing Techniques: Clinical Documents for Drugs and Biologics Linda Fossati Wood,MaryAnn Foote,2009-01-05 This book describes the authors standard or best practices used in writing regul ed clinical documents for the drug and biologics industry The fundamental premise of this book is that the end documents submitted to a health authority is dependent on the beginning the planning and strategy that go into organizing written documentation Each regulatory document inherently exists within a constellation of related documents This book attempts to show the relationships between and among these documents and suggests strategies for organizing and writing these documents to maximize efficiency while developing clear and concise text At all times and irrespective of applicable laws and guidelines good communication skills and a sense of balance are essential to adequately accurately and clearly describe a product's characteristics At no time should the reader perceive these suggestions to be the only viable solution to writing regulatory documents nor should the reader expect that these suggestions guarantee product success The audience for this book is the novice medical writer or those who would like to explore or enhance regulatory writing skills We assume the reader will have a basic understanding of written communication but little experience in applying this skill to the task of regulatory writing Extensive knowledge of science clinical medicine mathematics or regulatory affairs law is not required to use the best practices described in this book

House of Commons - Science and Technology Committee: Clinical Trials - HC 104 Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Science and Technology

Committee,2013-09-17 Many of the trials taking place today are unregistered and unpublished meaning that the information that they generate remains invisible to both the scientific community and the public This undermines public trust slowing the pace of medical advancement and potentially putting patients at risk All trials conducted on NHS treatments and all other trials receiving public funding should be prospectively registered and their results published in a scientific journal While the focus should be on implementing this change for future trials the Government must also do what it can to ensure that historic trials are registered and published particularly where they have been publically funded The Government should also take steps to facilitate greater sharing of the raw data generated during a trial in a responsible and controlled way with the knowledge and consent of patients The report also draws attention to the recent fall in the number of trials taking place in the UK It finds that the need for multiple governance approvals from participating NHS organisations remained the biggest barrier to setting up a UK trial but that lack of public awareness was also a key issue Recruiting participants can also be a challenge The report calls on the Government to take its recommendations into account in ongoing discussions regarding the revision of European clinical trials legislation and in its response to the European Medicines Agency's consultation on the release of clinical trial data which closes at the end of this month

Development Safety Update Report (DSUR)
Harmonizing the Format and Content for Periodic Safety Report During Clinical Trials World Health Organization,2006

Regular and timely review appraisal and communication of safety information are critical to risk management during the clinical development of drugs Whereas the overall goal of a clinical development program is to characterize the benefit risk relationship of the product in a particular patient population the risk to individual trial subjects is a critical consideration during product development at a time when the effectiveness of a product is generally uncertain By conducting an overall appraisal of safety data at regular intervals risks can be recognized thoughtfully assessed and appropriately communicated to all interested stakeholders to support the safety of clinical trial subjects Although regulatory authorities currently require the submission of a periodic safety report during the conduct of clinical trials there are substantial differences in the format content and timing of the different reports The CIOMS VII Working group is proposing in this new publication an internationally harmonized document namely the Development Safety Update Report DSUR that is modeled after the Periodic Safety Update Report PSUR for marketed products It presents the general principles behind the preparation and use of the DSUR and a model DSUR The model is illustrated with sample fictitious DSURs for a commercial and non commercial trial specific sponsor
