of conflict. The international organization is a corporation created to resolve conflicts, but its role has become increasingly limited within the present situation.

Ethnic conflicts and insurgencies have also taken place within the North-Eastern a part of India because of a mix of things. When there's a movement regarding reservation by the backward classes, in the country, the govt. resolves the problems by making special provisions in the constitution. This was also in the recent case of Jan Lokpal Bill, when Anna Hazare started a 'fast unto death' to exert pressure on the govt. of India to enact a powerful anti-corruption legislation. Judicial action is additionally a remedy to resolve conflicts which are sensitive in nature. As an example, the Babri Masjid dispute at Ayodhya.

Question 5:

Imagine a society where there is no competition. Is it possible? If not, why not?

Answer 5:

A society without competition isn't possible. This is often because it's an ambiguous idea, which is completely utopian in nature. Historically also, the concept of a society without competition, has failed miserably. Many societies adopted the ideology of socialism, which was based upon the principle of equality to any or all. However, socialism didn't work because it was inconsistent with the basic principles of human behavior. It had been inherent in groups of people to compete, so as to survive. The expansion of civilization has tempered indiscriminate competition to some extent and it's been the most difference between savages and civilized people. Technological advancements and innovations in human society have mostly taken place thanks to the urgency imposed by competition.

Furthermore, competition is that the dominant ideology of capitalism. The most idea here lies behind rational individuals in free competition within the marketplace, each competing member to earn the most profit.

For example, if there was no competition, there would be no difference between a student with the very best marks and a student with all-time low marks. Hence, the spirit of development would be lost.

Question 6:

Talk to your parents and elders, grandparents and their contemporaries and discuss whether modern society is really more competitive or conflict ridden than it used to be before. And if you think it is, how would you explain this sociologically?

Answer 6:

Society was competitive even during the time of our previous generations. Though, the wants of that time were different, the urge striving to the most effective has always been an element of the society. As an example, fifty years ago, the worth of ₹100 would be up to the worth of ₹10,000 within the contemporary times. Hence, the competition at that point was to induce ₹100.

The urge to induce the most effective available resources of the time has always led to competition and consequently, conflicts. This has been visible in the exploration of the planet by European explorers in search of resources. This results the process of colonization of newly discovered lands. The opposite forms of conflicts were based upon locally unique phenomena. For instance, the class structure in India was one among the oldest sorts of division of labour.

Therefore, it may be concluded that society has never been free from conflicts and competition because there has always been a change within the nature of conflicts in several periods of a society consistent with the prevalent social, economic and cultural conditions.
