

Hi, I am Zacharias Janssen. I am from the Netherlands, and in the early 1600s I made the first compound microscope. My invention became very popular, and soon everyone wanted to try the microscope.

Hi, I am Anton Van Leeuwenhoek, another Dutch scientist. I decided to make my own microscope after I heard of Janssen's discovery. I used my microscope to look at everything and discovered bacteria from looking at pond or sea water. He called the bacteria "animalcules". He consulted with Robert Hooke, an English scientist, about his discoveries.

Hello, I am Robert Hooke. My dear friend showed me what he found under the microscope called animalcules but I believe that they look very similar to cell walls. I realized the animalcules to be called cells.

My name is Matthias Schleiden. I am a botanist from Germany. I utilized the microscopes to look at plants and I discovered that each plant is made of cells.

Greetings! My name is Theodor Schwann. I found that all animals are made of cells. I contacted other scientists to begin the Cell Theory.

Continue to the next page to learn more about Schwann.

Before scientists believed that cells came from preexisting cells, but I did not believe that! I thought they came from free cell formation.

My name is Robert Brown. I proved the theory that cells come from other cells but Rudolph Virchow stole my work!

The work and discoveries of each of these scientists was combined to create the Cell Theory!
