

Computer Viruses

Boot Sector Virus

Controls the boot sector on the drive, rendering the machine unusable. It can spread when the infected device is booted up, compromising the system's ability to start up and damaging the data

File Infectors

Targets and infects executable files. When a file infected with a file infector virus is executed, the virus code is triggered and spread to other files on the system

Computer Worm

Operates as a program that can self-replicate and propagate across a network. They are able to move from one computer to another affecting the whole system

Resident Virus

Embeds itself within the computer's memory, making it difficult to detect and remove. It remains active even after the initial infection and can infect files as they are accessed or executed

Polymorphic Virus

Changes its code structure and appearance while maintaining its original function. This constant mutation makes it challenging for antivirus software to detect the virus

Macro Virus

Infects files that support macro functionality, such as documents or spreadsheets. It uses the macro programming language present in these files to execute its malicious code

Trojan Horse

Disguises itself as a legitimate program or file to deceive users and gain unauthorized access to their systems. Trojans do not reproduce and rely on users unknowingly executing them
