Design Issues in CSCW Duska Rosenberg,Christopher Hutchison,2013-12-01 One of the most significant developments in computing over the last ten years has been the growth of interest in computer based support for people working together Recognition that much work done in offices is essentially group work has led to the emergence of a distinct subfield of computer science under the title Computer Supported Cooperative Work CSCW Since the term was first coined in 1984 there has been growing awareness of the relevance to the field of and the valuable contributions to be made by non computing disciplines such as sociology management science social psychology and anthropology This volume addresses design issues in CSCW and since this topic crucially involves human as well as technical considerations brings together researchers from such a broad range of disciplines Most of the chapters in this volume were originally presented as papers at the one day seminar Design Issues in CSCW held at the Department of Trade and Industry DTI London on 17 March 1992 one in a series of DTI supported CSCW SIG seminars We would like to express our gratitude to the series editors Colston Sanger and Dan Diaper for their useful comments on and suggestions for revisions to the final draft of the manuscript to Linda Schofield our editor at Springer for her continued encouragement throughout the preparation of the manuscript and finally to our respective families for their support and patience over so many months Readings in Groupware and Computer-supported Cooperative Work Ronald M. Baecker,1993 This comprehensive introduction to the field represents the best of the published literature on groupware and computer supported cooperative work CSCW The papers were chosen for their breadth of coverage of the field their clarity of expression and presentation their excellence in terms of technical innovation or behavioral insight their historical significance and their utility as sources for further reading sourcebook to the field development or purchase of groupware technology as well as for researchers and managers groupware and human computer interaction Cscw 14 Vol 2 Computer Supported Cooperative Work Cscw 14 Conference Committee,2014-09-01 proceedings from the ACM Digital Library <http://www.acm.org/dl> Computer-Supported Cooperative Work Uwe M. Borghoff, Johann H. Schlichter, 2013-11-09 The terms groupware and CSCW (computer supported cooperative work) have received significant attention in computer science and related disciplines for quite some time now. This book is a revised and extended version of the 2nd edition of the German textbook Rechnergestützte Gruppenarbeit: Eine Einführung in verteilte Anwendungen. It has two main objectives: first to outline the meaning of both terms and second to point out both the numerous opportunities for users of groupware and the risks of applying such systems. The book intends to introduce an area of distributed systems, namely the computer support of individuals trying to solve a common problem in cooperation with each other but not necessarily having identical work places or working times. Computer supported cooperative work is an interdisciplinary application domain. It can be viewed as a synergism between the areas of distributed systems and multimedia communication on the one hand and between those of information science and socio-organizational theory on the other hand. Thus the book is meant to help students of all these disciplines as well as users and developers of systems which have communication and cooperation within groups as top priorities. CSCW ...
