differences with those of the United States illustrated with examples from Mitsubishi Electric, Kao and more. Memorial Articles for 20th Century American Accounting Leaders Stephen Zeff, 2016-03-31 This collection of memorial articles and selected obituaries highlights the careers and contributions to accounting practice, the accounting profession and the accounting literature of leading American figures in the 20th century. The memorial articles do much more than recite their subject's career. More importantly, they discuss and assess their subject's role in influencing the course of accounting practice and the profession as well as the evolution of their influential writings, revealing the names of the accounting leaders and leading thinkers of the past century. Memorial Articles for 20th Century American Accounting Leaders is useful in providing students and young researchers with a rich source of intelligence on the leaders who have established norms of practice, advanced the profession and set the terms of debate in the literature. Leaders who are cited and even quoted but who are known mostly as names without a full-bodied treatment of their backgrounds and broader roles in shaping the accounting literature. Reorganizing the Factory Nancy Hyer, Urban Wemmerlov, 2001-10-22 Winner of the 2003 Shingo Prize. Reorganizing work processes into cells has helped many organizations streamline operations, shorten lead times, increase quality and lower costs. Cellular manufacturing is a powerful concept that is simple to understand; however, its ultimate success depends on deciding where cells fit into your organization and then applying the know-how to design, implement and operate them. Reorganizing the Factory presents a thoroughly researched and comprehensive life cycle approach to competing through cellular work organizations. It takes you from the basic cell concept and its benefits through the process of justifying, designing, implementing, operating and improving this new type of work organization in offices and on the factory floor. The book discusses many important technical dimensions such as factory analysis, cell design, planning and control systems and principles for lead time and inventory reduction. However, unique to the literature, it also covers in depth the numerous managerial issues that accompany organizing work into cells. In most implementations, performance measurement, compensation, education and training, employee involvement and change management are critically important. These issues are often overlooked in the planning process yet they can occupy more of the implementation time than do the technical aspects of cells. Includes: Why do cells improve lead time, quality and cost? Planning for cell implementation. Justifying the move to cells strategically and economically. Designing efficient manufacturing and office cells. Selecting and training cell employees. Compensation system for cell employees. Performance and cost measurement. Planning and control of materials and capacity. Managing the change to cells. Problems in designing, implementing and operating cells. Improving and adapting existing cells. Structured frameworks and checklists to help analysis and decision making. Numerous examples of cells in various industries.

Outsourcing - a way to increase efficiency? The logistics context Vadims Kolmogorovs,2006-10-28 Bachelor Thesis from the year 2006 in the subject Business economics Supply Production Logistics grade 2 University of Applied Sciences Osnabr ck language English abstract Supply Chain Management SCM is a management concept aimed at organising and optimising the complete value chain from sourcing raw materials to the final customer regardless of organisational boundaries In recent years the strategy of concentrating on core competencies of companies led to a vertical disintegration of processes along the value chain Practical experience shows that companies focusing on their core competencies in first turn outsource logistics operations within their supply chain management to external service providers Outsourcing is defined as the practice of buying goods and services from outside suppliers rather than producing them within a firm Harvard Business Review HBR the popular management journal recently listed outsourcing as one of the most influential concepts coined in the last 75 years A fundamental question to ask in this work is whether outsourcing is really value enhancing and in particular whether the firm that undertakes outsourcing becomes more efficient as a result In the context of this work the degree of efficiency will be addressed by analysing the input side as labour costs and capital for initial investments It will be shown that in an attempt to increase efficiency by reducing expenses and turning fixed costs into variable costs companies pursue restructuring procedures that include outsourcing of non core activities to specialists having a lower cost base due to better economies of scale and scope In addition efficiency may also be improved because adjusting output to variations in demand and maintaining the quality of inputs may be easier via enforcing contracts with outside suppliers than in dealing with a strongly unionized internal workforce Management Planning and Control Kenneth R.
