

FAMILY COUNSELING APPROACH RESEARCH PAPER

PART I:

You are required to write a research paper/formal literature review in APA format on one of the specific approaches to family counseling. (e.g., structural, psychoanalytic, Bowenian, experiential, etc.). You should have appropriate professional references, including books and journals that are written to or for professionals. You may use some non-professional materials however these may not be the bulk of your references.

The format can follow the chapter format from the main text (Family Therapy) however, do not use the text as your primary reference. You will need a minimum of 12 sources in your reference page and therefore cited in the body of the paper. Part I of your paper requires a minimum of 6 pages in length, double-spaced; the paper must cover a style of family counseling covered in this course.

- a. Examine and critique the historical development of Marriage and Family counseling.
- d. Differentiate and apply a variety of marriage and family models and theories related to the many counseling orientations.
- e. Discuss and integrate knowledge of family life cycles/stages, various family systems, contemporary families, family health and wellness, cultural variances in families, and family phenomenology.
- h. Integrate biblical principles and secular theories in a responsible, eclectic manner.

PART II:

A personal integration section is required. This second section of your paper will be your attempt, after an entire graduate course on family counseling, to integrate your own faith and family counseling approach. You may use whatever resources are necessary to complete the assignment, including materials from Worthington's text. Please feel free to use books about integration, or any materials you have found beneficial on integrating your faith and counseling. The supplemental textbooks listed in your Syllabus may be of help to you in writing this paper. If your view is something other than Christian, discuss how your view might interact with your counseling approach. The use of the personal pronoun "I" is allowed in this section. This part of the paper should be a minimum of 4 pages in length. The entire paper (part I & II) will be a minimum of 10 pages.
