Overcurrent and Earthfault Relay

A non-directional heavily damped induction disc relay which has an adjustable inverse time/current characteristic with a definite minimum time. The relay has a high torque movement combined with low burden and low overshoot. The relay disc is so shaped that as it rotates the driving torque increases and offsets the changing restraining torque of the control spring. This feature combined with the high torque of the relay ensures good contact pressure even at currents near pick-up. Damping of the disc movement is by removable high retentively permanent magnet.

The unique method of winding the operating coil ensures that the time / current characteristics are identical on each of the seven current taps. Selection of the required current setting is by means of a plug setting bridge which has a single insulated plug. The maximum current tap is auto-matically connected when the plug is with-drawn from the bridge, allowing the set-ting to be changed under load without risk of open circuiting the current transformers.

The IDMT relay has an auxiliary unit which is powered by a secondary winding on the electromagnet through a rectifier and as such a separate auxiliary supply is not re-quired. The disc unit operates and closes its contacts, the auxiliary element connected across the secondary winding on the elec-tromagnet operates, one normally open contact of the auxiliary element reinforces the disc contact. Two other contacts of the auxiliary element are brought out to the terminals of the relay (Refer Figure 4)

The relay operating time can be adjusted by movement of the disc backstop which is controlled by rotating a knurled moulded disc at the base of the graduated time multiplier scale.

A high-set instantaneous overcurrent / earth fault unit, type CAG 17 can be fitted in the same case to provide instantaneous protection under maximum short circuit conditions and to improve discrimination on time graded protective systems.

For full details of the high-set instantaneous unit refer to relevant publications.
Type CDG 21 relay is a single pole type CDG 11 relay with a high-set instantane-ous unit.
Type CDG 31 is a triple pole ver-sion of the type CDG 11 with three over-current units or two overcurrent units and one earthfault unit in the centre. Type CDG 61 relay is triple pole version of type CDG 21 relay.
