Reinforcement and Study Guide

Section 9.1 The Need for Energy

In your textbook, read about cell energy.

Use each of the terms below just once to complete the passage.

energy
ATP

phosphate chemical bonds

adenine work charged ribose

To do biological (1) work, cells require energy. A quick source of energy that cells use is the molecule (2) ATP. The (3) energy in this molecule is stored in its (4) chemical bonds. ATP is composed of a(n) (5) adenine molecule bonded to a(n) (6) ribose sugar. Three (7) charged molecules called (8) phosphate groups are attached to the sugar.

In your textbook, read about forming and breaking down ATP and the uses of cell energy.

Examine the diagram below. Then answer the questions.

9. How is energy stored and released by ATP?

Energy that is used to add a phosphate group to ADP becomes stored as a chemical bond in the resulting ATP molecule. The stored energy is released when ATP is broken down to ADP and a phosphate group.

10. How do cells use the energy released from ATP?

Cells use energy to make new molecules, maintain homeostasis, transmit nerve impulses, move, produce light, etc.

Industrial Process Plants Ravi Nath, 2024-02-19 Removing the barriers to the Global Optimization of Plant Utility Systems by providing practical tools and techniques to deal with these unique challenges is the purpose of this book The operating cost of a typical Plant Utility System of a typical Industrial Production Process Plant is enormous often in tens if not hundreds of millions of dollars per Annum With so much money at stake one would expect that heroic optimization efforts would be made to reduce the operating cost however such is usually not the case One reason for this complacency is that Plant Utility Systems are usually cost centers in Process Plants and their operating cost is prorated amongst the various Production Units so it suffers from what is at times referred to as the tragedy of the commons Another reason for this complacency is that the Plant Utility System structure is significantly different than that of other Production Units as for flexibility and safety reasons it has a large spare capacity to meet increased utility demand during startups shutdowns and emergencies The existence of a spare equipment necessitates optimization of discrete decisions whereby traditional optimization techniques do not readily apply Part of the problem is that the traditional engineering curriculum primarily emphasizes only one of the many optimization methods called Non Linear Programming NLP Although NLP can address large classes of optimization problems it has fairly stringent requirements that all describing relationships or functions be continuous and have continuous derivatives Additionally in general NLP only guarantees a local but not the global optimum Another optimization method is particularly well suited for modeling Plant Utility Systems is called Mixed Integer Linear Programming MILP And unlike NLP MILP methods can guarantee global optimum which is very reassuring MILP however does impose linearity requirements but as discussed in this book there are techniques to overcome this limitation
