

Chapter 8 Psychology Notes

Chapter 8.1:

- Developmental scientists also focus on understanding how infants come to think and learn about the world in which they live, which falls in the area of cognitive development
- Other developmental psychologists focus on social development, studying topics like parent-child interactions, sibling relationships, and peer interactions
- The point is that development is a delicate process with an abundance of factors or circumstances that might impact how growth occurs in both utero and after birth.
- The first prenatal stage is called the germinal stage, and the fertilized egg is called a zygote. The first major characteristic of this period is rapid cell division.
  - undifferentiated cells (also called stem cells), which means that these cells aren't yet specialized for a particular job, so their purpose is just rapid division.
  - The hollow ball of cells that is formed is called a blastocyst
- Unfortunately, this process does not always occur as planned. In some cases, for example, the fertilized egg implants into the fallopian tube, resulting in an ectopic pregnancy. The uterus is a muscle that can expand (as the zygote grows) and contract (to move the fetus along during childbirth), but the fallopian tubes don't have this ability.
  - The fallopian tube cannot expand to support a growing zygote or contract during childbirth.
- The embryonic stage starts after the fertilized egg implants into the uterus during the 2nd week and lasts until the 8th week. The defining characteristic of the embryonic period is called organogenesis, which is the development of all of the major organs and body systems.
- The rapid changes that take place during this period proceed according to the cephalocaudal and proximodistal principles of development
  - Cephalocaudal development refers to the pattern of development that occurs from the top down.
  - Proximodistal development refers to the pattern of development that occurs from the inside out.
- The fetal period occurs from the 9th week of gestation all the way until birth (which is 38-40 weeks in a full-term pregnancy). This period of prenatal development is characterized by refinements and finishing touches as well as significant growth.

Chapter 8.2:

- A teratogen is any environmental agent that contributes negatively to prenatal development, in many cases causing birth defects.
