

PRE-LAB QUESTIONS

1. A concentration gradient affects the direction that solutes diffuse. Describe how molecules move with respect to the concentration.
  - a. Molecules are always in motion due to kinetic energy present in every atom. Molecules move from high areas of concentration to low areas of concentration. Once equilibrium is achieved molecules will move in each direction at an equal rate. (Stanford Virtual Lab). The definition of concentration gradient is the change in molecular density over a given area. The image from the diffusion and osmosis lab is a good visual example of how concentration gradients affect the direction of a solute diffusion.

(Stanford Virtual Lab)

2. How does size affect the rate of diffusion?
  - a. The Lipid bilayer selects the molecules that can dissolve through the cell membrane. The smaller the size and the electrical charge of the molecule has the easier time crossing the membrane. The simple rate of diffusion allows small uncharged molecules to pass through the cell membrane. (Stanford Virtual Lab). Facilitated diffusion allows larger molecules to use specific channels to pass through the cell membrane. (Stanford Virtual Lab).
3. Does polarity affect the rate of diffusion? Explain your answer.
