

Part Name	Common Faults or Alarms	Actions Required
Evaporator Motor	Not a common issue but display will show a sad face and have an alarm indicating evap current is high/low	Remove hatch bolts, fans can sometimes be seized by an obstruction. If no obstruction and fan blade is seized, a new motor is required.
Condenser Motor	Fan is obstructed due to container being too close to something	Sometimes these fans get caught on the grille. Free up and try turning on, if not, new motor needed
Compressor	Power trips when compressor starts or excessive noise coming from compressor	Have an electrician check the voltage being supplied to the container is correct. Sometimes this causes the compressor to "single phase". If power is ok, compressor is most likely fault.
Filter Drier	Not a common issue	If unit is not cooling to temperature, look for any obvious signs of gas leaks by looking for oil
Power Cable and Plug	Unit no power	Sometimes the wires can come out of the plug. Check plug for signs of burn out and check cable for signs of physical damage. Cable can be replaced or repaired in sections and plugs will need replacement.
Keypad	Sometimes these units look like they are not powering up.	Sometimes you may have just need to simply hold the power button which is the triangle button at the bottom of the keypad.
Display	Smiley Face = No alarms Frown Face = Warning alarm Sad Face = Serious alarm	These units are quite user friendly, navigate to the alarms section on the display and this will give you more information about what alarm is showing.
