Information: Nuclear reactions and binding-energy

A nuclear reaction is a change in the composition of the nucleus of an atom. That is, the number of protons is changed in chemical reaction, and that that stayed in what substances are made together for.

There are three types of nuclear reactions: fusion, fission, and radioactive decay. Fusion is the joining of two light nuclei, such as the stars where the sun and fusion. Fission is the splitting of a heavy nucleus, such as the nuclear reaction in the power plant and nuclear weapons.

Radioactive decay is spontaneous, meaning that the nuclei of some atoms "decay" and give off particles, "rays," or both. There is one thing to be careful about: isotopes are radioactive.
