Black Hills Forestry A History:

Black Hills Forestry John F. Freeman, 2015-01-15 The first study focused on the history of the Black Hills National Forest its centrality to life in the region and its preeminence within the National Forest System Black Hills Forestry is a cultural history of the most commercialized national forest in the nation One of the first forests actively managed by the federal government and the site of the first sale of federally owned timber to a private party the Black Hills National Forest has served as a management model for all national forests Its many uses activities and issues recreation timber mining grazing tourism First American cultural usage and the intermingling of public and private lands expose the ongoing tensions between private landowners and public land managers Freeman shows how forest management in the Black Hills encapsulates the Forest Service's failures to keep up with changes in the public's view of forest values until compelled to do so by federal legislation and the courts In addition he explores how more recent events in the region like catastrophic wildfires and mountain pine beetle epidemics have provided forest managers with the chance to realign their efforts to create and maintain a biologically diverse forest that can better resist natural and human disturbances This study of the Black Hills offers an excellent prism through which to view the history of the US Forest Service's land management policies Foresters land managers and regional historians will find Black Hills Forestry a valuable resource A History of Forest Entomology in the Intermountain and Rocky Mountain Areas, 1901-1982 Malcolm M. Furniss, 2007 This account spans the time from AD Hopkins trip to the Black Hills SD in 1901 to my retirement in 1982 The focus is on personnel and the work of the Division of Forest Insect Investigations USDA and the Forest Service experiment stations in the Rocky Mountain and Intermountain areas Information for the Intermountain and Northern Rocky Mountain station areas is derived from my experience there and as chairman of the history committee of the Western Forest Insect Work Conference WFIWC Information on the Rocky Mountain and Southwestern station areas came primarily from the WFIWC archives University of Idaho and from retired The Black Hills Forest Reserve Henry Solon Graves, 1899 forest entomologists A Century of Change in Black Hills Forest and Riparian Ecosystems J. Barry Parrish, 1996 Common Ground Martha Geores, 1996 This fascinating study of the role property rights play in preserving natural resources traces the changing uses of the Black Hills National Forest from its beginnings in 1898 to the present day Geores argues that contrary to widely held notions local management of property does not lead inevitably to the degradation of resources Rather the Black Hills National Forest has flourished as a multiple use environment when local people have actively helped manage it instead of leaving its care to the Forest Service
