Designing Geodatabases For Transportation:

Designing Geodatabases for Transportation J. Allison Butler, 2008 Designing Geodatabases for Transportation addresses the development of a GIS to manage data relating to the transportation facilities and service commonly organized around various modes of travel for accurate and reliable data exchange Transportation involves several modes of travel and although the details of each mode can be quite different this book demonstrates how all follow a basic conceptual structure That structure consists of an origin a destination a path between the two and a conveyance that provides the ability to move along the path to establish a common data structure Choice ,2008 Modeling the Interactions Between Land Use and Transportation Investments Using Spatiotemporal Analysis Tools ,2003 Surface Transportation Security ,2006

World Highways ,2002 Mastering ArcGIS Maribeth Hughett Price, 2006 Accompanying CD ROM includes video clips with audio instructions to demonstrate step by step tutorials and reference material as well as complete data for following the tutorials and doing the independent exercises Designing Geodatabases David Arctur, Michael Zeiler, 2004 Building accurate geodatabases is the foundation for meaningful and reliable GIS By documenting actual case studies of successful ArcGIS implementations Designing Geodatabases makes it easier to envision your own database plan Jacket ARC User ,2009 GIS Static Storm Model Development Francisco Olivera, Tarun Gill, 2004 Rainfall runoff modeling at a watershed scale requires the definition of the storm event and of the conveying characteristics of the watershed This research project focuses on the geographic definition of the storm event that is on the spatial distribution of precipitation over the watershed As the watershed size increases the likelihood that a storm will cover the entire watershed decreases and it becomes necessary to identify which parts of the watershed are affected by the storm and which are not Traditionally precipitation estimates have been based on precipitation records obtained at discrete points i e precipitation stations which led to depth duration frequency DDF equations or curves An estimate of the area covered by the storm event however has not been included in the analysis and it has been customary to assume it uniformly distributed over the entire watershed regardless of its size Thus far no model has been developed to map the area of the watershed that is covered by the storm as well as to determine the spatial distribution of precipitation over this area Use of NEXRAD precipitation data however will allow the development of a model and geographic information systems GIS based application that relaxes the assumption of uniformly distributed precipitation and estimates the storm precipitation distribution within the watershed Children Map the World Jacqueline Margaret Anderson, 2005 Presents one hundred drawings submitted by children from around the world to the Barbara Petchenik Children s World Map Competition that express their hopes wishes and fears for the world Geomatica ,2001 Digital Land James L. Sipes, Mark S. Lindhult, 2007-05-04 It s your complete guide to design and planning as they relate to land and how digital technology fits into the process Digital Land Integrating Technology into the Land Planning Process explains what digital tools are used to collect assemble and analyze information used to assess the suitability of both development and preservation It also covers scales of planning including regional community and neighborhood projects and shows how digital tools can be used to complete those projects better and faster Case studies offer sound examples of how digital and traditional tools were used in specific planning projects This book is ideal if you make or are interested in decisions about the use of land in your neighborhood community or region     System Earth - Biosphere Coupling, Regional Geology of Central Europe André Freiwald,Heinz-Gerd Röhling,Sonja-B.
