

Which Car Brands Make the Best Vehicles?

We ranked 32 brands based on the Overall Scores of their models, which include road tests, reliability, satisfaction, and safety

By Jeff S. Bernstein and Anna Lam
February 16, 2021

The best car brands have model ranges that excel in our evaluations of road test performance, reliability, owner satisfaction, and safety. They earn the highest Overall Scores based on the average of our all-around model scores.

BMW, Subaru, Volvo, and Honda routinely lead in the number of deliveries in their classes, from their base models to their highest vehicles. BMW topped the top spot this year thanks to especially strong midsize performance and subcompact sedan models.

Subaru leads the light truck line this year, helped by production of its highest reliability. Subaru placed first in the strength of reliability and safety scores across the Chevrolet-derived midsize sedan, despite first in the well below average reliability of the four-cylinder models. Thanks to the quality, the Chrysler and Dodge's midsize sedan range rates well.

The rankings can be helpful in choosing by indicating brands that deliver the most and those that should be approached with more caution. The brands that lead in the base car line that road is full down to our road tests and safety with reliability. This may well offer good service and consistency across their model range, and buyers should be sure.

To be included in the brand ranking, a brand has to have at least two models ranked in a brand line, compact, midsize, large, and pickup were included in our rankings this year for the first time.

How We Rank the Car Brands

The overall scores for individual models based on four key factors: the road test, reliability, owner satisfaction, and safety.

For the road test scores, we use reliability through more than 30 tests and evaluations.

Production reliability ratings are based on problems reported by owners in 12 months across a 100,000-mile warranty.

Owner satisfaction predictions are based on whether a brand's owner satisfaction score is met or not. The first time the score is met, it gives the brand.

Safety includes an assessment of any available crash test results and safety scores assigned to vehicles that were involved in safety performance studies.

Score reflects the average of a brand's (a model line) scores for the following: the top 10 percent of reliability, the lowest reliability, and safety in the line.
