Cretaceous Climate Events and Short-Term Sea-Level Changes M. Wapreid,M.B. Hart,B. Sames,I.O. Yilmaz,2020 Sea level constitutes a critical planetary boundary for geological processes and human life Sea level fluctuations during major greenhouse phases are still enigmatic and strongly discussed in terms of changing climate systems. The geological record of the Cretaceous greenhouse period provides a deep time view on greenhouse phase Earth system processes that facilitates a much better understanding of the causes and consequences of global geologically short term sea level changes. In particular, Cretaceous hothouse periods can serve as a laboratory to better understand a near future greenhouse Earth. This volume presents high resolution sea level records from globally distributed sedimentary archives of the Cretaceous involving a large group of scientists from the International Geoscience Programme IGCP 609. Marine to non marine sedimentary successions were analysed for revised age constraints, the correlation of global palaeoclimate shifts and sea level changes tested for climate driven cyclicities and correlated within a high resolution stratigraphic framework of the Geological Timescale. For hothouse periods, the hypothesis of significant global groundwater related sea level change, i.e. aquifer eustasy as a major process, is reviewed and substantiated.

Nature-Based Solutions for Urban Water

Management Junguo Liu, Zhan Tian, Qinghua Ye, Laixiang Sun, Shiqiang Wu, 2024-02-23. Water plays an essential role in the development and functioning of a city but could also be a key risk factor for urban pluvial flooding which may occur more frequently in the context of future climate change. The traditional means of flood risk management relied heavily on engineering measures or the use of gray infrastructure. Recently there has been a call to integrate nature based solutions (NBS) which make use of natural processes and ecosystem services with conventional engineering approaches. NBS infrastructures and designs pay great attention to ecosystem services considerations in assessing their induced hydrological processes as well as in managing the stormwater and mitigating urban flood and droughts. Nevertheless compared with grey infrastructure, larger space could be demanded for NBS while the buffer effect for NBS in extremes events is still uncertain for evaluation.

Wetlands and Water Resources: Ecological Solutions for the Environment Guangzhi Sun, Xiaofei Yu, Yuanchun Zou, Guobin Fu, 2023-04-12. Wetlands are usually located in complex landscapes. Multiple ecosystem services delivered by wetlands to human well being should be considered in broader contexts of wetland functions, water quality, water resource management and wetland conservation. Natural wetlands are kidneys and sponges of the earth that remove water pollutants and provide hydrological regulation functions vital to the environment. Where the functions of the wetlands are weakened, actions of rehabilitations are needed to revitalize those functions. While worldwide many natural wetlands have disappeared due to climate change and/or human activities, constructed wetlands which may be seen as artificial kidneys/sponges of the earth have been increasingly built to replicate the functions of the natural wetlands. This Research Topic aims to collect and present the latest research developments in natural and constructed wetlands in relation to either water resource functions or water quality. Articles published in this Research Topic will showcase new understandings of water balances and flow patterns, vegetation characteristics and pollutant transformations in wetland systems, innovative designs and efficiencies of wastewater treatment wetlands and technologies that revitalize the ecosystem functions of natural wetlands These articles are expected to bring benefits to research communities water and wastewater industries and government agencies that deal with wetland water management and conservation High quality Original Research and Review articles in this field are all welcome for submission to this Research Topic Research interests include but are not limited to the following areas 1 Water balances and flow patterns in natural wetland systems 2 The hydrological regulation functions and importance of natural wetlands in their environmental context 3 Vegetation characteristics of natural wetlands and their functional importance in wetland water pollution control 4 Techniques for the rehabilitation of degraded wetlands 5 The role of constructed wetlands in wastewater treatment 6 Innovative designs and efficiencies of wastewater treatment wetlands 7 The modeling of hydrological and or pollutant dynamics in wetland systems 8 The ecohydrology of wetlands 9 The role of wetlands in the global carbon cycle 10 Impacts of climate change and human activities on wetland hydrology and water resources Recognizing that hydrological and biogeochemical processes are basically coupled in wetlands and their landscapes manuscripts that report their interactions are particularly welcome
